Engendering International Health Gita Sen, Asha George, Piroska Östlin, 2002 Research on gender inequity in international health in both low and high income countries

Theological Libraries and Library Associations in Europe, 2022-08-15 During the past 50 years theological libraries have confronted secularisation and religious pluralism along with revolutionary technological developments that brought not only significant challenges but also unexpected opportunities to adopt new instruments for the transfer of knowledge through the automation and computerisation of libraries This book shows how European theological libraries tackled these challenges how they survived by redefining their task by participating in the renewal of scholarly librarianship and by networking internationally Since 1972 BETH the Association of European Theological Libraries has stimulated this process by enabling contacts among a growing number of national library associations all over Europe

Canadian Foreign Policy Brian Bow, Andrea Lane, 2020-11-01 Canadian Foreign Policy as an academic discipline is in crisis Despite its value CFP is often considered a stale and pale subfield of political science with an unfashionably state centred focus This book asks why Contributors from both inside and around the field investigate how they came to view themselves as participating in CFP as an academic project or not and what that means for both their intellectual trajectory and the development of the field How were they taught to think about Canada How does that affect their interpretation of this country s place in the world And how do they teach the subject themselves The thoughtful essays in this nuanced collection shine a light on issues such as the casualization of academic labour the prospect of Indigenizing the field and the relationship between study and practice More broadly they offer a much needed assessment of the boundaries goals and values of the discipline and an important guide to its revitalization

Troubling Care Pat Armstrong, Susan Braedley, 2013 How can we plan organize distribute and offer care in ways that treat both those who need it and those who provide it with dignity and respect Using the example of residential services Troubling Care Critical Perspectives on Research and Practices investigates the fractures in our care systems and challenges how caring work is understood in social policy in academic theory and among health care providers In this era defined by government cutbacks and a narrowing sense of collective responsibility long term residential care for the elderly and disabled is being undervalued and undermined A result of a seven year interdisciplinary research project in progress this book draws together the work of fourteen leading health researchers including sociologists medical practitioners social workers policy researchers cultural theorists and historians Using a feminist political economy lens these scholars explore and challenge the theories work organization practices and state society relations that have come to shape long term care Troubling Care offers critical perspectives on the often disquieting arena of care provision and proposes alternatives for thinking about and meeting the needs of some of our most vulnerable citizens in ways that go beyond residential care This book seeks to bridge not only the gaps between disciplines but also those between theory and practice Features takes an interdisciplinary approach making this work appropriate for courses in a variety of disciplines including sociology medicine social work health policy cultural studies and political economy includes the work of fourteen leading health researchers including sociologists medical practitioners social workers policy researchers cultural theorists and historians bridges the gap between theory and practice by incorporating both theoretical research and specific case examples

Fascist Interactions David D. Roberts,2016-05
Although studies of fascism have constituted one of the most fertile areas of historical inquiry in recent decades more and more scholars have called for a new agenda with more research beyond Italy and Germany less preoccupation with definition and classification and more sustained focus on the relationships among different fascist formations before 1945 Starting from a critical assesment of these imperatives this rigorous volume charts a historiographical path that transcends rigid distinctions while still developing meaningful criteria of differentiation Even as we take fascism seriously as a political phenomenon such an approach allows us to better understand its distinctive contradictions and historical variations
