PLOT SUMMARY

Siva is a waiter at a fancy hotel in Johannesburg. For most of the story, he is on the train on the way home to Lenasia. On the train, he thinks about how disappointed he is in his own life. He regrets not working harder when he was at school. He would have liked to go to university to study to be a teacher or a doctor. He has put all his hopes in his son, Krishna.

His wife is dead, so he takes care of Krishna. He hopes that Krishna will work hard, go to university and have the successful life that he failed to have. His hope and pride in Krishna give his life meaning. When he gets home, his neighbour, Mrs Rudy, tells him that there was a fire in his house.

He is deeply afraid that Krishna has died. He goes inside to check and is relieved to find Krishna sleeping. He takes out his old Standard Six report, which says that he has failed. He is hopeful that Krishna will pass Standard Six (Grade 6). However, Mrs Rudy brings in Krishna's report. It says that Krishna has failed as well. Siva is very sad and afraid for the future.

SETTING

The story is set in Johannesburg. Siva works in the city but lives in Lenasia, an Indian township 30km south west of the city. Most of the story happens while he is on the train on his way home. The story takes place over a very short period of time. It starts at 5:00pm when Siva gets on the train and ends an hour or two later when he gets home and goes into his house.

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

The story is set during Apartheid, when cities were still segregated by law. Therefore, Siva is not allowed to live in Johannesburg where he works. He has to live in Lenasia and travel into the city every day. At the time of the story, the South African education system did not use grades. Instead, after Grade 2, grades were called 'standards'. In the story, Krishna is in Standard Six. This is what we would call Grade 6 today.

PERSONALITY TRAITS

Siva had a lot of potential when he was younger. However, he wasted it by not taking his studies seriously. He dropped out of high school and could not go to university. He now feels sorry for himself and bitter about his life. He does not enjoy being a waiter at a fancy hotel. He is humiliated by his job and by how poor he is. He is a good and loving father. However, he does not only want Krishna to succeed for Krishna's sake. He also wants Krishna to succeed in order to compensate (make up) for his own failures.

PHYSICAL DESCRIPTION

He is an Indian South African man. We do not find out what he looks like.

CHANGES

At the start of the story, we see that Siva is filled with hope for his son's future. He hopes that his son's success will make up for his own failures. At the end of the story he discovers that Krishna has also failed Standard Six. This means that he is making the same mistakes that Siva made. This means he will probably never go to university and have a successful career. Siva loses all hope. He is not angry with Krishna, but full of fear for his future.
