Enter Dark Stranger:

Enter Dark Stranger William Trowbridge, 1989-01-01 A stunning first poetry collection These poems are howlingly nasty and perfectly executed Trowbridge's weapons are a deep puzzlement of feeling and a wonderful ear he knows how to divert with jokes while he's about to attack BLAM BLAM BLAM San Francisco Chronicle Enter Dark Stranger: Poems by William Trowbridge (p) William Trowbridge, 1989 William Trowbridge reminds us of the terrible series uses to which comedy can be put and of the near limitless possibilities of the dramatic creation of character This is a thoroughly captivating collection of poems

Leucocyte, 1915 The Old Formalism Jonathan Holden, 1999-01-01 Our appreciation of American poetry is as influenced by the personas presented in the poems as by public perception of the poets themselves Emily Dickinson peeking from behind a doorway with large dark eyes is an indelible image superimposed over her spare enigmatic poems The grand gestures of Walt Whitman's voice have much to do with our reading of Song of Myself And we cannot hear Mending Wall or Mowing without thinking of the image of the rustic sly farmer poet that Robert Frost so carefully cultivated The moral authority of the poet reveals itself through the poems as well and it is crucial to the meaning of the poem Holden argues if art is to elevate life Part 1 of The Old Formalism The Practice is a close study of some of the conventions and developments in contemporary American poetry with such topics as sex and poetry rhetoricity and sensibility Holden shows lucidly how character or lack of it is revealed in poetry In Personae the second part he gives a studied reading of a group of several admired poets such as Richard Hugo Mary Kinzie Ted Kooser and William Stafford Holden uses biographical references and personal contacts with the poets to strengthen the notion of character revealed in poetry This book takes a decided stand in the ongoing debate of the past two decades about the relationship of American poetry to American culture In an age when image dominates word and the business of poetry is nearly as celebrity laden as Hollywood Holden takes us past the media glitz backstage where the poems are waiting to be read Quite simply in a clear incisive manner he teaches us how to read well again

I'll Tell You A Secret Anne Coleman, 2010-11-05 Memory opens for me through my body I slip back because I catch a smell hear a sound or hold an evocative flavour on my tongue But these single sense glimpses of or gusts from the past are often fleeting More compelling for me more total is when my whole body the entire surface of my skin and my muscles movements connect me to my old self Especially it is the movements of summer when more of me meets the elements while I am swimming or feeling my bramble scratched legs against hot rocks Or when I am experiencing the lovely lassitude that fills me at the end of a long afternoon of sun and water as I stand slicing tomatoes for my supper while corn boils and sun falls in the window on a pile of raspberries in a bowl All my senses all are alive from I'll Tell You a Secret A delightful beautifully written and thoroughly engaging story of coming of age in the 1950s that focuses on Anne Coleman between the ages of fourteen and twenty one and her relationship with Mr MacLennan Canadian literary figure Hugh MacLennan which played out in the summers in the village of North Hatley Quebec a picturesque resort that has been known to attract artists and writers and the upper classes In prose that is intimate visual and resonant with immediacy Anne Coleman brings us back to summers in the 1950s revealing the eccentricities of North Hatley and its residents but most of all focusing on her special friendship with a man many years her senior Independent individualistic sensually alert as a young girl Anne Coleman did not fit the mould Later when Anne is eighteen she leads a double life one which follows the course of a romance with Frank the dark brooding European young man who has a strange hold over her and the enigmatic Mr MacLennan whose own feelings for Anne suggest themselves to her in ways that are at once confusing tantalizing and deeply important Along the way the story also offers a wonderfully evocative portrayal of the 1950s its sexual repressiveness and mores The beautiful village of North Hatley comes alive in vivid ways This is a unique coming of age story by a writer who writes sentences that cut to the bone

Kill the Documentary Jill Godmilow,2022-03-22 Can the documentary be useful Can a film change how its viewers think about the world and their potential role in it In Kill the Documentary the award winning director Jill Godmilow issues an urgent call for a new kind of nonfiction filmmaking She critiques documentary films from Nanook of the North to the recent Ken Burns Lynn Novick series The Vietnam War Tethered to what Godmilow calls the pedigree of the real and the pornography of the real they fail to activate their viewers engagement with historical or present day problems Whether depicting the hardships of poverty or the horrors of war conventional documentaries produce an us watching them mode that ultimately reinforces self satisfaction and self absorption In place of the conventional documentary Godmilow advocates for a postrealist cinema Instead of offering the faux empathy and sentimental spectacle of mainstream documentaries postrealist nonfiction films are acts of resistance They are experimental interventionist performative and transformative Godmilow demonstrates how a film can produce meaningful useful experience by forcefully challenging ways of knowing and how viewers come to understand the world She considers her own career as a filmmaker as well as the formal and political strategies of artists such as Luis Bu uel Georges Franju Harun Farocki Trinh T Minh ha Rithy Panh and other directors Both manifesto and guidebook Kill the Documentary proposes provocative new ways of making and watching films
