Hackney Memories:

Hackney Memories Alan Wilson, 2004-04-15 The 1930s were a troubled era and England was a land of contrasts This work gives a vivid impression of growing up in a working class family in the East End at this time It should be of interest to anyone who remembers the interwar years and anyone interested in London's social history

Actors and Networks in the Megacity Prachi More, 2017-10-15 This study is a concise introduction to Bruno Latour's Actor Network Theory and its application in a literary analysis of urban narratives of the 21st century We encounter well known psycho geographers such as Iain Sinclair and Sam Miller and renowned authors Patrick Neate and Suketu Mehta Prachi More analyses these authors accounts of vastly different cities such as London Delhi Mumbai Johannesburg New York and Tokyo Are these urban narratives a contemporary solution to documenting an ever evasive urban reality If so how do they embody matters of concern as Latour would have put it laying bare modern day actors and networks rather than reporting mere matters of fact These questions are drawn into an inter disciplinary discussion that addresses concerns and questions of epistemology the sociology of knowledge as well as urban and documentary studies

The 'Estranged' Generation? Social and Generational Change in Interwar British Jewry David Dee, 2017-08-22 This book focuses on the nature and extent of social change integration and identity transformation within the Jewish community of Britain during the interwar years It probes the notion widely articulated by Jewish communal leaders at this time that the immigrant second generation i.e British and foreign born children of Russian and Eastern European Jews who migrated to Britain in the late Victorian era up to the First World War had estranged themselves from their Jewishness Jewish elders and peers and were fast assimilating into the British mainstream The volume analyses the second generation's developing outlooks and behavioural trends in a variety of environments effectively charting the changes and continuities present therein As a whole the book sheds light on the varied ways in which this group developed new identities that both drew from and reflected their Jewish and British heritage

Reimagining Industrial Sites Catherine Heatherington, 2017-12-06 The discourse around derelict former industrial and military sites has grown in recent years This interest is not only theoretical and landscape professionals are taking new approaches to the design and development of these sites This book examines the varied ways in which the histories and qualities of these derelict sites are reimagined in the transformed landscape and considers how such approaches can reveal the dramatic changes that have been wrought on these places over a relatively short time scale It discusses these issues with reference to eleven sites from the UK Germany the USA Australia and China focusing specifically on how designers incorporate evidence of landscape change both cultural and natural There has been little research into how these developed landscapes are perceived by visitors and local residents This book examines how the tangible material traces of pastness are interpreted by the visitor and the impact of the intangible elements hidden traces experiences and memories The book draws together theory in the field and implications for practice in landscape architecture and concludes with an examination of how different approaches to revealing and reimagining change can affect the future management of the site
