film stock opposites that are not harmoniously resolved at the end Among the three films discussed Wenders film within the film is the only one not completed suggesting an unsure future for the cinema In examining these three films I shall focus on the following aspects 6 In what way does the film reflect on the history of motion pictures references to it What attitude does the filmmaker have concerning the artificial illusionist elements of his profession product How does the filmmaker deal with the narrative and filmic conventions of his profession What does the film tell us about the film director s artistic and working style Does life imitates art in these films To which extent can autobiographic elements be found in these films and can any parallels between the director in the film and the director of the film be drawn How can the film be classified in the oeuvre of the director Does it mark the end of one phase of his work and or lead into a new one How is the film within the film plot accomplished Finally all three films will be compared with each other with regard to the above mentioned questions which will then lead to a final assessment of the self reflexivity explored in these films
