Handbook Of Perception Volume 5 Seeing:

Figural Synthesis Peter C. Dodwell, Terry Caelli, 2021-12-29 The aim of this book originally published in 1984 was to bring together a number of approaches to this important topic Significant advances had been made in the two decades before publication in our understanding of many aspects of the coding that occurs along the visual pathways The major developments had been associated with probing the nature of logical processes whether physiologically or psychophysically and relatively less attention had been devoted to the problem of how such locally coded knowledge is put together to yield coherent representations of spatially and temporally extended patterns that is to figural synthesis Thus while a great deal was known about the responses of individual cells in the visual system to controlled stimulation and about the specificity of the orientational and spatial frequency tuning of channels assessed psychophysically there had been much less discussion of how such knowledge could be brought to bear on the general problems of understanding pattern recognition Seeing John P. Frisby, 1980 Pictorial Communication In Real And Virtual Environments Stephen Ellis, 1991-06-04 Advances in the quality and accessibility of computer graphics has provided new pictorial displays and the tools with which to control them These new display technologies have focused interest on how to design the static and dynamic images they produce to ensure effective communication This book based on the conference on Spatial Displays and Sp Observability and Observation in Physical Science Peter Kosso, 2012-12-06 The concept of observability of entities in physical science is typically analyzed in terms of the nature and significance of a dichotomy between observables and unobservables In this book however this categorization is resisted and observability is analyzed in a descriptive way in terms of the information which one can receive through interaction with objects in the world The account of interaction and the transfer of information is done using applicable scientific theories In this way the question of observability of scientific entities is put to science itself Several examples are presented which show how this interaction information account of observability is done It is demonstrated that observability has many dimensions which are in general orthogonal The epistemic significance of these dimensions is explained This study is intended primarily as a method for understanding problems of observability rather than as a solution to those problems The important issue of scientific realism and its relation to observability however demands attention Hence the implication of the interaction information account for realism is drawn in terms of the epistemic significance of the dimensions of observability This amounts to specifying what it is about good observations that make them objective evidence for scientific theories The Adaptive Brain II Stephen Grossberg, 2013-10-22 The Adaptive Brain II Vision Speech Language and Motor Control focuses on a unified theoretical analysis and predictions of important psychological and neurological data that illustrate the development of a true theory of mind and brain The publication first elaborates on the quantized geometry of visual space and neural dynamics of form perception Discussions focus on reflectance rivalry and spatial frequency detection figure ground separation by filling in barriers and disinhibitory propagation of functional scaling from boundaries to interiors The text then takes a look at neural dynamics of perceptual grouping and brightness perception Topics include simulation of a parametric binocular brightness study smoothly varying luminance contours versus steps of luminance change macrocircuit of processing stages paradoxical percepts as probes of adaptive processes and analysis of the Beck theory of textural segmentation The book examines the neural dynamics of speech and language coding and word recognition and recall including automatic activation and limited capacity attention a macrocircuit for the self organization of recognition and recall role of intra list restructuring and contextual associations and temporal order information across item representations The manuscript is a vital source of data for scientists and researchers interested in the development of a true theory of mind and brain

Handbook of Infant Perception Philip Salapatek, Leslie B. Cohen, 1987 More than a decade has passed since the publication in 1975 of Cohen and Salapatek's compendium on infant perception Since that time the field has grown considerably with the result that where there were substantive omissions in many sub areas of the field 10 years ago such as developmental anatomy effector mechanisms in vision visual psychophysics color perception and cross modal integration it is possible now to prepare new volumes in which topics ranging from sensory to cognitive processes are treated systematically without any glaring omissions Hence the Handbook of Infant Perception contributors are among the leading researchers in their fields comprehensive coverage of the range of topics from sensation to cognition coherent state of the field presentation Perception, 1991 Spatial Vision, 1994 Readings on Color, Volume 2 Alex Byrne, David R. Hilbert, 1997-05-15 Color is an endlessly compelling subject to philosopher scientists and general readers as well as an instructive microcosm of cognitive science In these two anthologies the authors present a survey of the important recent philosophical and scientific writings on color Jacket Psychophysiology of Visual Masking Talis Bachmann, 1994 Section headings Foreword Introduction The Problem of Visual Masking Facts and the Theories of Visual Masking The Conception of Perceptual Retouch and its Experimental Control The Psychophysiological Modelling from Short Term Images Conclusions

Handbook of Clinical Neuropsychology Susan B. Filskov, Thomas J. Boll, 1981 This book focuses on new areas of interest and issues likely to be important in the next five to ten years Part one covers professional scientific contact and conflict Part two deals primarily with assessment oriented issues part three with conditions of medical and physical concern that also have neuropsychological implications and the concluding section focuses on several issues of current and future significance
