Food Sovereignty:

Indigenous Food Sovereignty in the United States Devon A. Mihesuah, Elizabeth Hoover, 2019-08-02 All those interested in Indigenous food systems sovereignty issues or environment and their path toward recovery should read this powerful book Kathie L Beebe American Indian Quarterly Centuries of colonization and other factors have disrupted indigenous communities ability to control their own food systems This volume explores the meaning and importance of food sovereignty for Native peoples in the United States and asks whether and how it might be achieved and sustained Unprecedented in its focus and scope this collection addresses nearly every aspect of indigenous food sovereignty from revitalizing ancestral gardens and traditional ways of hunting gathering and seed saving to the difficult realities of racism treaty abrogation tribal sociopolitical factionalism and the entrenched beliefs that processed foods are superior to traditional tribal fare The contributors include scholar activists in the fields of ethnobotany history anthropology nutrition insect ecology biology marine environmentalism and federal Indian law as well as indigenous seed savers and keepers cooks farmers spearfishers and community activists After identifying the challenges involved in revitalizing and maintaining traditional food systems these writers offer advice and encouragement to those concerned about tribal health environmental destruction loss of species habitat and governmental food control Critical Perspectives on Food Sovereignty Marc Edelman, 2017-10-02 This volume is a pioneering contribution to the study of food politics and critical agrarian studies where food sovereignty has emerged as a pivotal concept over the past few decades with a wide variety of social movements on the ground experiments and policy innovations flying under its broad banner Despite its large and growing popularity the history theoretical foundations and political program of food sovereignty have only occasionally received in depth analysis and critical scrutiny This collection brings together both longstanding scholars in critical agrarian studies such as Philip McMichael Bina Agarwal Henry Bernstein Jan Douwe van der Ploeg and Marc Edelman as well as a dynamic roster of early and mid career researchers The ultimate aim is to advance this important frontier of research and organizing and put food sovereignty on stronger footing as a mobilizing frame a policy objective and a plan of action for the human future This volume was published as part one of the special double issue celebrating the 40th anniversary of the Journal of Peasant Studies Human Rights and the Food Sovereignty Movement Priscilla Claeys, 2015-01-09 Our global food system is undergoing rapid change Since the global food crisis of 2007 2008 a range of new issues have come to public attention such as land grabbing food prices volatility agrofuels and climate change Peasant social movements are trying to respond to these challenges by organizing from the local to the global to demand food sovereignty As the transnational agrarian movement La Via Campesina celebrates its 20th anniversary this book takes stock of the movement s achievements and reflects on challenges for the future It provides an in depth analysis of the movement s vision and strategies and shows how it has contributed not only to the emergence of an alternative development paradigm but also of an alternative conception of human rights The book assesses efforts to achieve the international recognition of new human rights for peasants at the international level namely the right to food sovereignty and peasants rights It explores why La Via Campesina was successful in mobilizing a human rights discourse in its struggle against neoliberalism and also the limitations and potential pitfalls of using the human rights framework The book shows that to inject subversive potential in their rights based claims rural social activists developed an alternative conception of rights that is more plural less statist less individualistic and more multi cultural than dominant conceptions of human rights Further they deployed a combination of institutional from above and extrainstitutional from below strategies to demand new rights and reinforce grassroots mobilization through rights

Translating Food Sovereignty Matthew C. Canfield,2022-04-19 In its current state the global food system is socially and ecologically unsustainable nearly two billion people are food insecure and food systems are the number one contributor to climate change While agro industrial production is promoted as the solution to these problems growing global food sovereignty movements are challenging this model by demanding local and democratic control over food systems Translating Food Sovereignty accompanies activists based in the Pacific Northwest of the United States as they mobilize the claim of food sovereignty across local regional and global arenas of governance In contrast to social movements that frame their claims through the language of human rights food sovereignty activists are one of the first to have articulated themselves in relation to the neoliberal transnational order of networked governance While this global regulatory framework emerged to deepen market logics Matthew C Canfield reveals how activists are leveraging this order to make more expansive social justice claims This nuanced deeply engaged ethnography illustrates how food sovereignty activists are cultivating new forms of transnational governance from the ground up

Food Sovereignty in International Context Amy Trauger,2015-02-11 Food sovereignty is an emerging discourse of empowerment and autonomy in the food system with the development of associated practices in rural and some urban spaces While literature on food sovereignty has proliferated since the first usage of the term in 1996 at the Rome Food Summit most has been descriptive rather than explanatory in nature and often confuses food sovereignty with other movements and objectives such as alternative food networks food justice or food self sufficiency This book is a collection of empirically rich and theoretically engaged papers across a broad geographical spectrum reflecting on what constitutes the politics and practices of food sovereignty They contribute to a theoretical gap in the food sovereignty literature as well as a relative shortage of empirical work on food sovereignty in the global North much previous work having focussed on Latin America Specific case studies are included from Canada Norway Switzerland southern Europe UK and USA as well as Africa India and Ecuador The book presents new research on the emergence of food sovereignties It offers a wide variety of empirical examples and a theoretically engaged framework for explaining the aims of actors and organizations working toward autonomy and democracy in the food system

The Politics of Food Sovereignty Annie Shattuck,Christina Schiavoni,Zoe VanGelder,2018-07-26 Food sovereignty has been a fundamentally contested concept in global agrarian discourse over the last two decades as a political project and campaign an alternative a social movement and an analytical framework It has inspired and mobilized diverse publics workers scholars and public intellectuals farmers and peasant movements NGOs and human rights activists in the global North and South The term food sovereignty has become a challenging subject for social science research and has been interpreted and reinterpreted in a variety of ways It is broadly defined as the right of peoples to democratically control or determine the shape of their food system and to produce sufficient and healthy food in culturally appropriate and ecologically sustainable ways in and near their territory However various theoretical issues remain sovereignty at what scale and for whom How are sovereignties contested What is the relationship between food sovereignty and human rights frameworks What might food sovereignty mean extended to a broader set of social relations in urban contexts How do the principles of food sovereignty interact with local histories and contexts This comprehensive volume examines what food sovereignty might mean how it might be variously construed and what policies it implies This book was originally published as a special issue of the journal Globalizations

Public Policies for Food Sovereignty Annette Aurelie Desmarais, Priscilla Claeys, Amy Trauger, 2017-09-07 An increasing number of rural and urban based movements are realizing some political traction in their demands for democratization of food systems through food sovereignty Some are pressuring to institutionalize food sovereignty principles and practices through laws policies and programs While the literature on food sovereignty continues to grow in volume and complexity there are a number of key questions that need to be examined more deeply These relate specifically to the processes and consequences of seeking to institutionalize food sovereignty What dimensions of food sovereignty are addressed in public policies and which are left out What are the tensions losses and gains for social movements engaging with sub national and national governments How can local governments be leveraged to build autonomous spaces against state and corporate power The contributors to this book analyze diverse institutional processes related to food sovereignty ranging from community supported agriculture to food policy councils direct democracy initiatives to constitutional amendments the drafting of new food sovereignty laws to public procurement programmes as well as Indigenous and youth perspectives in a variety of contexts including Brazil Ecuador Spain Switzerland UK Canada USA and Africa Together the contributors to this book discuss the political implications of integrating food sovereignty into existing liberal political structures and analyze the emergence of new political spaces and dynamics in response to interactions between state governance systems and social movements voicing the radical demands of food sovereignty

Food Sovereignty Eric Holt-Gimenez, Alberto Alonso-Fradejas, Todd Holmes, Martha Jane Robbins, 2018-01-02 A fundamentally contested concept food sovereignty FS has as a political project and campaign an alternative a social movement and an analytical framework barged into global discourses both political and academic over the past two decades This collection identifies a number of key questions regarding FS What does re localisation mean How does the notion of FS connect with similar and or overlapping ideas historically How does it address questions of both market and non market forces in a dominantly capitalist world How does FS deal with such differentiating social contradictions How does the movement deal with larger issues of nation state where a largely urbanised world of non food producing consumers harbours interests distinct from those of farmers How does FS address the current trends of crop booms as well as other alternatives that do not sit comfortably within the basic tenets of FS such as corporate captured fair trade How does FS grapple with the land question and move beyond the narrow rural agricultural framework Such questions call for a new era of research into FS a movement and theme that in recent years has inspired and mobilised tens of thousands of activists and academics around the world young and old men and women rural and urban This book was originally published as a special issue of Third World Quarterly

Food Sovereignty Ernest Cañada,2006

We Want Land to Live Amy Trauger,2017 Trauger s work is the first of its kind to analytically and coherently link a dialogue on food sovereignty with case studies illustrating the spatial and territorial strategies by which the movement fosters its life in the margins of the corporate food regime

Food Sovereignty Annette Aurelie Desmarais,Nettie Wiebe,Hannah Wittman,2010 This is the means to achieving the UN endorsed goal of food security

Globalization and Food Sovereignty Peter Andree,Jeffrey Ayres,Michael Bosa,Marie-Josée Massicotte,2014-03-21 In recent years food sovereignty has emerged as a way of contesting corporate control of agricultural markets in pursuit of a more democratic decentralized food system The concept unites individuals communities civil society organizations and even states in opposition to globalizing food regimes This collection examines expressions of food sovereignty ranging from the direct action tactics of La V a Campesina in Brazil to the consumer activism of the Slow Food movement and the negotiating stances of states from the global South at WTO negotiations With each case the contributors explore how claiming food sovereignty allows individuals to challenge the power of global agribusiness and reject neoliberal market economics With perspectives drawn from Europe the Americas Asia Africa and Australia

Globalization and Food Sovereignty is the first comparative collection to focus on food sovereignty activism worldwide

Food as a Human Right William D. Schanbacher,2019-03-22 This important work addresses the difficult ethical issues surrounding the accessibility of food to all people as a human right and not a privilege that emerges because of social structure or benefit of geography Food sovereignty the right of peoples to define their own chosen food and agriculture free of monopolization or threats is the path to stopping global hunger This book approaches the topic from a solutions based perspective discussing concrete policy providing for sovereignty or control of one s own food sources as a solution that while controversial offers more promise than do the actions of international organizations and trade agreements Providing access to safe healthy food is an ethical responsibility of the world s nations not just a right of the elite or wealthy This book presses the need to formulate policies that address the problems of poverty and hunger on a more humane and meaningful level Organized thematically chapters are based on such topics as food security food sovereignty human rights and sustainability that focus on the global food system Specific case studies provide examples of global hunger and poverty issues Taken in its entirety the book informs readers of how their food consumption might negatively affect the global poor while its concluding chapters offer solutions for alleviating problems in the global food system Food Sovereignty, Agroecology and Biocultural Diversity Michel. P. Pimbert, 2017-11-01 Contestations over knowledge and who controls its production are a key focus of social movements and other actors that promote food sovereignty agroecology and biocultural diversity This book critically examines the kinds of knowledge and ways of knowing needed for food sovereignty agroecology and biocultural diversity Food sovereignty is understood here as a transformative process that seeks to recreate the democratic realm and regenerate a diversity of autonomous food systems based on agroecology biocultural diversity equity social justice and ecological sustainability It is shown that alternatives to the current model of development require radically different knowledges and epistemologies from those on offer today in mainstream institutions including universities policy think tanks and donor organizations To achieve food sovereignty agroecology and biocultural diversity there is a need to re imagine and construct knowledge for diversity decentralisation dynamic adaptation and democracy The authors critically explore the changes in organizations research paradigms and professional practice that could help transform and co create knowledge for a new modernity based on plural definitions of wellbeing Particular attention is given to institutional pedagogical and methodological innovations that can enhance cognitive justice by giving hitherto excluded citizens more power and agency in the construction of knowledge The book thus contributes to the democratization of knowledge and power in the domain of food environment and society Chapters 1 and 8 of this book are freely available as downloadable Open Access PDFs at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4 0 license

Food and Poverty Leslie Hossfeld, E. Brooke Kelly, Julia Waity, 2021-04-30 Food insecurity rates which skyrocketed with the Great Recession have yet to fall to pre recession levels Food pantries are stretched thin and states are imposing new restrictions on programs like SNAP that are preventing people from getting crucial government assistance At the same time we see an increase in obesity that results from lack of access to healthy foods The poor face a daily choice between paying bills and paying for food The Struggle for Food Sovereignty Remy Herrera, Kin Chi Lau, 2015-07-20 The world's food system is broken and today's peasant societies are at a crossroads This collection explores the multiplicity of problems faced by global family agricultures in the current neoliberal era The contributors including Samir Amin Joao Pedro Stedile and Utsa Patnaik argue that an understanding of the revival of peasant struggles for their social emancipation and legitimate right of access to land is essential Financialisation is undermining their work and must be resisted if they are to construct a new socially just food system This is a response to the confusion surrounding how these urgent problems are understood with the authors offering solutions as to how they should be resolved They express the importance of the co operation and cohesion of the various struggles taking place across Latin America Africa Asia Oceania and Europe and how they must share a common vision for the future Critical Perspectives on Food Sovereignty Marc Edelman, 2017-10-02 This volume is a pioneering contribution to the study of food politics and critical agrarian studies where food sovereignty has emerged as a pivotal concept over the past few decades with a wide variety of social movements on the ground experiments and policy innovations flying under its broad banner Despite its large and growing popularity the history theoretical foundations and political program of food sovereignty have only occasionally received in depth analysis and critical scrutiny This collection brings together both longstanding scholars in critical agrarian studies such as Philip McMichael Bina Agarwal Henry Bernstein Jan Douwe van der Ploeg and Marc Edelman as well as a dynamic roster of early and mid career researchers The ultimate aim is to advance this important frontier of research and organizing and put food sovereignty on stronger footing as a mobilizing frame a policy objective and a plan of action for the human future This volume was published as part one of the special double issue celebrating the 40th anniversary of the Journal of Peasant Studies

Human Rights and the Food Sovereignty Movement Priscilla Claey, 2015-01-09 Our global food system is undergoing rapid change Since the global food crisis of 2007 2008 a range of new issues have come to public attention such as land grabbing food prices volatility agrofuels and climate change Peasant social movements are trying to respond to these challenges by organizing from the local to the global to demand food sovereignty As the transnational agrarian movement La Via Campesina celebrates its 20th anniversary this book takes stock of the movement s achievements and reflects on challenges for the future It provides an in depth analysis of the movement s vision and strategies and shows how it has contributed not only to the emergence of an alternative development paradigm but also of an alternative conception of human rights The book assesses efforts to achieve the international recognition of new human rights for peasants at the international level namely the right to food sovereignty and peasants rights It explores why La Via Campesina was successful in mobilizing a human rights discourse in its struggle against neoliberalism and also the limitations and potential pitfalls of using the human rights framework The book shows that to inject subversive potential in their rights based claims rural social activists developed an alternative conception of rights that is more plural less statist less individualistic and more multi cultural than dominant conceptions of human rights Further they deployed a combination of institutional from above and extrainstitutional from below strategies to demand new rights and reinforce grassroots mobilization through rights

Rethinking Food Systems Nadia C.S. Lambek, Priscilla Claey, Adrienna Wong, Lea Brilmayer, 2014-01-10 Taking as a starting point that hunger results from social exclusion and distributional inequities and that lasting sustainable and just solutions are to be found in changing the structures that underlie our food systems this book examines how law shapes global food systems and their ongoing transformations Using detailed case studies historical mapping and legal analysis the contributors show how various actors farmers civil society groups government officials international bodies use or could use different legal tools legislative jurisprudential norm setting on various scales local national regional global to achieve structural changes in food systems Section 1 Institutionalizing New Approaches explores the possibility of institutionalizing social change through two alternative visions for change the right to food and food sovereignty Individual chapters discuss V a Campesina s struggle to implement food sovereignty principles into international trade law and present case studies on adopting food sovereignty legislation in Nicaragua and right to food legislation in Uganda The chapters in Section 2 Regulating for Change explore the extent to which the regulation of actors can or cannot change incentives and produce transformative results in food systems They look at the role of the state in regulating its own actions as well as the actions of third parties and analyze various means of regulating land grabs The final section Governing for Better Food Systems discusses the fragmentation of international law and the impacts of this fragmentation on the realization of human rights These chapters trace the underpinnings of the current global food system explore the challenges of competing regimes of intellectual property farmers rights and human rights and suggest new modes of governance for global and local food systems The stakes for building better food systems are high Our current path leaves many behind destroying the environment and entrenching inequality and systemic poverty While it is commonly understood that legal structures are at the heart of food systems the legal academy has yet to make a significant contribution to recent discussions on improving food systems this book aims to fill that gap Food Sovereignty David Barkin,2019-08-15 Outlines an innovative new strategy for combatting poverty centered on food sovereignty and community action
