Proceedings Royal Geographical Society of Australasia. South Australian Branch,1928 The Story of Captain Cook's Three Voyages Round the World Meredith Jones,1870 Johann Reinhold Forster and the Making of Natural History on Cook's Second Voyage, 1772-1775 Anne Mariss,2019-09-09

James Cook s voyages of exploration are a turning point not only in the history of the British Empire but also in the history of science and exploration of the Pacific The last decades have seen a wide ranging scholarly interest in Cook s voyages focusing on their impact on European and Polynesian societies their scientific results and their protagonists such as Cook himself or the nobleman Joseph Banks who took part in Cook s first voyage of exploration This book examines the hitherto underestimated role of the German scholar Johann Reinhold Forster who together with his son Georg Forster accompanied Cook on his second voyage of exploration 1772 1775 as a principal naturalist For a long time the German traveler has remained a rather shadowy figure of Cook s voyages of exploration and has only attracted scholarly attention occasionally Focusing on the making of knowledge onboard the ship and the islands where it made landfall the study provides a historical reappraisal of Forster s scientific performance as a leading naturalist of his time By examining Forster s Resolution Journal

Anne Mariss takes a microhistorical approach toward the making of natural history knowledge during the expedition to the Pacific. Mariss unveils the difficulties the traveling naturalists encountered while collecting, describing, classifying, and painting the natural world. Her study brings to light the contribution of the various actors who were involved in this undertaking, such as the scientific assistants, sailors, officers, and the local actors of the Pacific world. Hero in Disgrace Howard S. Abramson, 1991. A pro-Cook account. Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc. Portland, OR. Captain Cook's Final Voyage James K. Barnett, 2020-10-14. Maritime historian and researcher James K. Barnett transcribed two extraordinary little-known journals from Captain James Cook's third exploratory voyage. They offer remarkable eyewitness accounts at the time of initial European contact, the first reasonably accurate maps of North America's west coast, the earliest comprehensive report from the Bering Sea ice pack, and the dramatic story of Cook's death at Kealahou Bay. Astonishing for accounts of landings along Hawaii, Vancouver Island, and Alaska, both chronicles languished in Australian archives for over a century. Barnett adds context and commentary to complete the story. Commissioned by the British Admiralty, Cook set sail in July 1776 to confirm the outline of North America's Pacific coastline and search for the elusive Northwest Passage. The expedition's sailing ships, the Resolution and the Discovery, traveled to the South Seas, then chanced upon the Hawaiian Islands before reaching the Oregon coastline and the Arctic. Cook chose to winter in the Hawaiian archipelago, where he died in a skirmish. His crews made a second attempt to find the coveted route, then returned to England after more than four years at sea. James Burney was first lieutenant on the Discovery. Active in shore parties and chart preparation, he saw Cook's death from the ship's deck. One of the few accounts from the consort vessel, his writing provides new details and important, thoughtful impressions of North and South Pacific people and places. Working under the notorious William Bligh, Henry Roberts was Master's Mate on the Resolution, performing essential hydrographic and cartographic tasks. He was a few feet away when Cook was killed. His well-illustrated logbook includes coordinates, tables of routes, and records of weather at sea, but also lively accounts of shore excursions. Illustrations include maps and drawings, as well as images by the expedition's official artist, John Webber.

Peppered with personal anecdotes and unique photographs, this biography of Alaska's Mount McKinley presents a complete history of one of the world's great mountains.
