Childhood Education Edith M. Leonard, 1963 Handbook of the Cultural Foundations of Learning Na'ilah Suad Nasir, Carol D. Lee, Roy D. Pea, Maxine McKinney de Royston, 2020 Edited by a diverse group of expert collaborators the Handbook of the Cultural Foundations of Learning is a landmark volume that brings together cutting edge research examining learning as entailing inherently cultural processes. Conceptualizing culture as both a set of social practices and connected to learner identities the chapters synthesize contemporary research in elaborating a new vision of the cultural nature of learning moving beyond summary to reshape the field toward studies that situate culture in the learning sciences alongside equity of educational processes and outcomes. With the recent increased focus on culture and equity within the educational research community this volume presents a comprehensive innovative treatment of what has become one of the field's most timely and relevant topics. The Mathematical Foundation of Multi-Space Learning Theory Tai Wang, Mengsiying Li, 2024-03-12 This book explores the measurement of learning effectiveness and the optimization of knowledge retention by modeling the learning process and building the mathematical foundation of multi-space learning theory. Multi-space learning is defined in this book as a micro process of human learning that can take place in more than one space with the goal of effective learning and knowledge retention. This book models the learning process as a temporal sequence of concept learning drawing on established principles and empirical evidence. It also introduces the matroid to strengthen the mathematical foundation of multi-space learning theory and applies the theory to vocabulary and mathematics learning respectively. The results show that for vocabulary learning the method can be used to estimate the effectiveness of a single learning strategy to detect the mutual interference that might exist between learning strategies and to predict the optimal combination of strategies. In mathematical learning it was found that timing is crucial in both first learning and second learning in scheduling optimization to maximize the intersection effective interval. The title will be of interest to researchers and students in a wide range of areas including educational technology, learning sciences, mathematical applications, and mathematical psychology.

Foundations for Learning Laurie L. Hazard, Jean-Paul Nadeau, 2011-02-20 This book is appropriate for courses in First Year Experience, College Success, and Study Skills. The focus of Foundations for Learning is on academic adjustment with personal development issues seamlessly integrated into the academic emphasis theme of claiming an education and taking responsibility for one's own education. Foundations for Learning addresses both the attitudinal variables and personality traits that affect college achievement like locus of control, conceptions of intelligence and intellectual curiosity in relation to specific study related behaviors such as text annotation and active listening. At its core, this text is based on the psychology of adjustment. Students are pushed to consider how each mindset, perception and attitude connects with their skill sets and how one influences the other. The text encourages students to use this insight to make the necessary adjustments to their new role as college students. It offers an acute awareness of first year student needs, an intellectual approach and a tight framework. It is primarily focused on the development of academic adjustment issues and meta-cognitive strategies as they naturally unfold during the first semester as opposed to primarily focusing on social adjustment issues or issues that aren't immediately relevant such as career development and is written in a challenging yet accessible way. This revision covers emerging technologies, broadens its audience and more.

Foundations for Learning Laurie L. Hazard, Jean-Paul Nadeau, 2009. For courses in First Year Experience, College Success and Study Skills. The focus of Foundations for Learning is on academic adjustment for first year college students with personal development issues seamlessly integrated into the academic emphasis. The theme is claiming an education and taking responsibility for one's own education. What is most unique about this text is that it addresses both the attitudinal variables and personality traits that affect college achievement like locus of control, conceptions of intelligence and intellectual curiosity in relation to specific study related behaviors such as text annotation and active listening. Students are pushed to consider how each skill set, perception and attitude connects with and influences the other. Other unique features include an acute awareness of first year student needs, an intellectual approach and a tight framework. Foundations for Learning is primarily focused on the development of academic adjustment issues and metacognitive strategies as they naturally unfold during the first semester as opposed to primarily focusing on social adjustment issues or issues that aren't immediately relevant such as career development. Finally, it's both challenging and accessible. Students appreciate that the text doesn't talk down to them with simplified vocabulary; they also appreciate it is to the point and practical.

Theoretical Foundations of Learning Environments David Jonassen, David H. Jonassen, Susan Land, 2014-04-08. Theoretical Foundations of Learning Environments describes the most contemporary psychological and pedagogical theories that are foundations for the conception and design of open ended learning environments and new applications of educational technologies In the past decade the cognitive revolution of the 60s and 70s has been replaced or restructured by constructivism and its associated theories including situated sociocultural ecological everyday and distributed conceptions of cognition These theories represent a paradigm shift for educators and instructional designers to a view of learning as necessarily more social conversational and constructive than traditional transmissive views of learning Never in the history of education have so many different theories said the same things about the nature of learning and the means for supporting it At the same time although there is a remarkable amount of consonance among these theories each also provides a distinct perspective on how learning and sense making occur This book provides students faculty and instructional designers with a clear concise introduction to these theories and their implications for the design of new learning environments for schools universities and corporations It is well suited as a required or supplementary text for courses in instructional design and theory educational psychology learning theory curriculum theory and design and related areas
