Making Corporate Social Responsibility a Global Concern Dr Lisbeth Segerlund, 2013-03-28

In recent decades claims have increasingly been made on transnational corporations to take responsibility for the promotion and protection of human and labour rights in countries where they operate This behavioural obligation results from the persistent advocacy of non governmental organizations and is commonly known as corporate social responsibility CSR Driven by the theory of the norm life cycle model the book uses an interesting range of case studies including Nike and the anti apartheid movement to trace the development of CSR as an international norm The development is examined through five selected non governmental organizations Clean Clothes Campaign Fairtrade Labelling Organizations International Global Exchange International Business Leaders Forum and the International Labor Rights Fund The book makes a lucid contribution to an emerging scholarship and will interest researchers and practitioners involved in issues of global governance and global civil society

Impacts Of Science And Technology On Currency Internationalization Peter

Guangping Zhang, 2023-02-02 For decades science and technology sci tech have influenced world trade world economy and international finance However their specific impacts are seldom known and related empirical studies are rare Thus we must quantify and empirically explore how sci tech influences such areas as mentioned above The purpose of this book is to explore how sci tech influences world trade foreign exchange and currency internationalization in various ways through first quantifying science technology This book empirically explores how major world currencies might change their relative international positions with continuous innovation and diffusion of sci tech Currency internationalization is measured by the percentage share of the average daily turnover of a particular currency in the global foreign exchange market over the corresponding overall daily turnover of the global foreign exchange market over the corresponding overall daily turnover of the global foreign exchange market Sci tech as a commodity is borderless yet its inventors and related businesses are bound by the intellectual property laws of their own countries Patents especially international patents are useful representations of sci tech They cannot be compared directly because of different criteria of patent regulators worldwide and thus the quality of patents varies across patent regulators Based on patent data from annual IP 5 Statistics Reports and charges for the use of IP of major currency issuers released by the WTO this book quantifies sci tech internationalization using weighted patent families first and proceeds to study how sci tech internationalization affects currency internationalization Sharing Network Leadership George B.
