Family and Class in a London Suburb Peter Willmott,1967 Family and Class in a London Suburb Peter Willmott,Michael Young,2023-08-09 Originally published in 1960 the authors of Family and Kinship in East London then made an intensive study of a middle class dormitory suburb Here families were more often on their own than in the East End but despite the differences between the districts there were some similarities The bond between mother and married daughter was almost as strong in the suburb as in the city Most old people too were cared for in both places by their children and other relatives though the authors show how serious were the special problems of the aged in this suburban setting The enquiry examined the influence of social class upon community life This is reviewed in relation to club and church membership and to friendship patterns and the behaviour of middle and working class people to each other is discussed Class tensions and their effect on the otherwise friendly and neighbourly atmosphere that the authors found in the suburb provide the main theme of the final chapters Family and Class in a London Suburb Peter Willmott,Michael Dunlop Young,1973 Family and Class in a London Suburb Peter Willmott,1968 Family Men Laura King,2020-01-09 Fathers are often neglected in histories of family life in Britain Family Men provides the first academic study of fathers and families in the period from the First World War to the end of the 1950s It takes a thematic approach examining different aspects of fatherhood from the duties it encompassed to the ways in which it related to men s identities The historical approach is socio cultural each chapter examines a wide range of historical source materials in order to analyse both cultural representations of fatherhood and related social norms as well as exploring the practices and experiences of individuals and families It uncovers the debates surrounding parenting and family life and tells the stories of men and their children While many historians have examined men s relationship to the home and family in histories of gender family life domestic spaces and class cultures more generally few have specifically examined fathers as crucial family members as historical actors and as emotional individuals The history of fatherhood is extremely significant to contemporary debate assumptions about fatherhood in the past are constantly used to support arguments about the state of fatherhood today and the need for change or otherwise in the future Laura King charts men s changing experiences of fatherhood suggesting that although the roles and responsibilities fulfilled by men did not shift rapidly their relationships position in the family and identities underwent significant change between the start of the First World War and the 1960s Invincible Green Suburbs, Brave New Towns Mark Clapson,1998 Explores the phenomenon of the mass movement of people away from town and city centres to live in new estates and towns built since World War II Using sociology town planning materials oral history and other sources this book examines the making of modern suburbia The British working class in postwar film Philip Gillett,2019-01-04 An incidental pleasure of watching a film is what it tells us about the society in which it is made Using a sociological model The British working class in postwar film looks at how working class people were portrayed in British feature films in the decade after the Second World War Though some of the films examined are well known others have been forgotten and deserve reassessment Original statistical data is used to assess the popularity of the films with audiences With its interdisciplinary approach and the avoidance of jargon this book seeks to broaden the approach to film studies Students of media and cultural studies are introduced to the skills of other disciplines while sociologists and historians are encouraged to consider the value of film evidence in their own fields This work should appeal to all readers interested in social history and in how cinema and society works
