Chinese City and Urbanism, 2010 The purpose of this volume is to treat the progress of history civilization and urban development of China together in order to demonstrate the unique qualities of Chinese civilization The author uses historical dynasties as the vertical dimension starting from the pre urban origin of round moat village settlements of the Yangzhou Period until the most recent transitional city under the present socialist market system There are a total of 13 chapters covering a time span of roughly 6 000 years The book also discusses the theoretical context of the uniqueness of Chinese urban evolution and compares it with experiences in the West It comprehensively treats major events economic developments territorial changes and developments in technology art and culture military as well as administrative systems in the dynasties as urban change dynamics The material therefore succinctly covers 6 000 years of Chinese cultural history Besides using a large amount of Chinese literature including materials on recent archeological finds the volume explores substantial Western literature on relevant issues with the purpose of putting the Chinese experience in a global context The author has included in the volume over 100 maps and line drawings selected from his collection accumulated over 30 years as a university lecturer and researcher of urban geography and the Chinese city They provide vivid and readily apprehensible illustrations for illuminating key points on the structure of the Chinese city and the geopolitical situation of China in major historical periods They also add exquisite detail through graphic techniques to the textual treatment of the subject matters and are in themselves visually appealing adding unique dimension to the volume The volume targets a wide spectrum of readers and will appeal to anyone interested in the culture and civilization cities urban planning and economic philosophical political and historical developments of Chi

The Origins and Character of the Ancient Chinese City Paul Wheatley, 2017-07-12 These two volumes elucidate the manner in which there emerged on the North China plain hierarchically structured functionally specialized social institutions organized on a political and territorial basis during the second millennium b c They describe the way in which during subsequent centuries these institutes were diffused through much of the rest of North and Central China Author Paul Wheatley equates the emergence of the ceremonial center as evidenced in Shang China with a functional and developmental stage in urban genesis and substantiates his argument with comparative evidence from the Americas Mesopotamia Egypt Southeast Asia the Mediterranean and the Yoruba territories The Origins and Character of the Ancient Chinese City seeks in small measure to help redress the current imbalance between our knowledge of the contemporary Western style city on the one hand and of the urbanism characteristic of the traditional world on the other Those aspects of urban theory which have been derived predominantly from the investigation of Western urbanism are tested against rather than applied to ancient China The Origins and Character of the Ancient Chinese City examines the cosmological symbolism of the Chinese city constructed as a world unto itself. It suggests with a wealth of argument and evidence that this cosmo-magical role underpinned the functional unity of the city everywhere until new bases for urban life began to develop in the Hellenistic world. Whereas the majority of previous investigations into the nature of the Chinese city have been undertaken from the standpoint of elites, The Origins and Character of the Ancient Chinese City has adopted a point of view closer to that of the social scientist than the geographer.

Chinese City and Urbanism Fengxuan Xue, Victor F. S. Sit, 2010. Ch 1 Introducing the Chinese case: its origin and stages of development. Ch 2 From village to proto-urban settlements of late Yangshao period. Ch 3 Longshan city states. Ch 4 Urbanism in the early bronze age state of the Xia. Chinese City and Regional Planning Systems Li Yu, 2017-03-02. While the Chinese planning system is vitally important to the rapid development which has been taking place over the past three decades, this is the first text to provide a comprehensive examination and critical evaluation of this system. It sets the current system in historical context and explains the hierarchy of government departments responsible for planning and construction, the different types of plans produced and recent urban planning innovations which have been put into practice. Illustrated with boxed empirical case studies, it shows the problems faced by the planning system in facing the uncertainty in the market economy. In all, it provides readers with a full understanding of a complex and powerful system which is very distinct from other planning systems around the world. As such, it is essential reading for all students interested in the current development taking place in China and, in addition, for planning students with a general interest in planning systems and theory.

Cameos of a Chinese City Mary E. Darley, 1917. Strange Stories from a Chinese Studio Songling Pu, 1909. The Chinese City Weiping Wu, Piper Gaubatz, 2013-05-07. China's cities are home to 10 percent of the world's population today. They display unprecedented dynamism under the country's surging economic power. Their remarkable transformation builds on immense traditions having lived through feudal dynasties, semicolonialism and socialist commands. Studying them offers a lens into both the complex character of the changing city and the Chinese economy, society and environment. This text is anchored in the spatial sciences to offer a comprehensive survey of the evolving urban landscape in China. It is divided into four parts with 13 chapters that can be read together or as stand-alone material. Part I sets the context, describing the geographical setting, China's historical urban system and traditional urban forms. Part II covers the urban system since 1949, the rural-urban divide and migration and interactions with the global economy. Part III outlines the specific sectors of urban development, including economic restructuring, social spatial transformation urban infrastructure and urban land and housing Finally part IV showcases urbanism through the lens of the urban environment lifestyle and social change and urban governance The Chinese City offers a critical understanding of China's urbanization exploring how the complexity of the Chinese city both conforms to and defies conventional urban theories and experience of cities elsewhere around the world This comprehensive book contains a wealth of up to date statistical information case studies and suggested further reading to demonstrate the diversity of urban life in China

Remaking the Chinese City Joseph W. Esherick, 2001-10-31 In China today skyscrapers tower over ancient temples freeways deliver lines of cars and tour buses to imperial palaces cinema houses compete with old theaters featuring Peking Opera The disparity evidenced in the contemporary Chinese cityscape can be traced to the early decades of the twentieth century when government elites sought to transform cities into a new world that would be at once modern and distinctly Chinese Remaking the Chinese City aims to capture the full diversity of recent Chinese urbanism by examining the modernist transformations of China's cities in the first half of the twentieth century Collecting in one place some of the most interesting and exciting new work on Chinese urban history this volume presents thirteen essays discussing ten Chinese cities the commercial and industrial center of Shanghai the old capital Beijing the southern coastal city of Canton the interior's Chengdu the tourist city of Hangzhou the utopian New Capital built in Manchuria during the Japanese occupation the treaty port of Tianjin the Nationalists capital in Nanjing and temporary wartime capitals of Wuhan and Chongqing Unlike past treatments of early twentieth century China which characterize the period as one of failure and decay the contributors to this volume describe an exciting world in constant and fundamental change During this time the Chinese city was remade to accommodate parks and police paved roads and public spaces Rickshaws trolleys and buses allowed the growth of new downtowns Department stores theaters newspapers and modern advertising nourished a new urban identity Sanitary regulations and traffic laws were enforced and modern media and transport permitted unprecedented freedoms Yet despite their fondness for things Western and modern early urban planners envisioned cities that would lead the Chinese nation and preserve Chinese tradition The very desire for modernity led to the construction of a visible and accessible national past and the imagining of a distinctive national future In their investigation of the national capitals of the period the essays show how cities were reshaped to represent and serve the nation To promote tourism traditions were invented and recycled for the pleasure and edification of new middle class and foreign consumers of culture Abundantly illustrated with maps and photographs Remaking the Chinese City presents the best and most current scholarship on modern Chinese cities Its thoroughness and detailed scholarship will appeal to the specialist while its clarity and scope will engage the general reader Contributors Michael Tsin on Canton Ruth Rogaski and Brett Sheehan on Tianjin David Buck on Changchun Kristin Stapleton on Chengdu Liping Wang on Hangzhou Madeleine Dong on Beijing Charles Musgrove on Nanjing Stephen MacKinnon on Wuhan Lee MacIsaac on Chongqing and Jeffrey Wasserstrom and David Strand with concluding essays Frank Leslie's Sunday Magazine ,1883 Millard's Review of the Far East ,1917 Merchants' Association Review ,1903
