Contested Terrain Keith Wilhite, 2022-12-01 Contested Terrain explores suburban literature between two moments of domestic crisis: the housing shortage that gave rise to the modern era of suburbanization after World War II and the mortgage defaults and housing foreclosures that precipitated the Great Recession. Moving away from scholarship that highlights the alienating, placeless quality of suburbia, Wilhite argues that we should reimagine suburban literature as part of a long literary tradition of U.S. regional writing that connects the isolation and exclusivity of the domestic realm to the expansionist ideologies of U.S. nationalism and the environmental imperialism of urban sprawl. Wilhite produces new, unexpected readings of works by Sinclair Lewis, Lorraine Hansberry, Richard Yates, Patricia Highsmith, Don DeLillo, Jonathan Franzen, Jeffrey Eugenides, Chang-rae Lee, Richard Ford, Jung Yun, and Patrick Flanery. Contested Terrain demonstrates how postwar suburban nation building ushered in an informal geography that recalibrated notions of national identity, democratic citizenship, and domestic security to the scale of the single-family home.

Land Charles Finch Dowsett, 1892

Property Rights and Climate Change Fennie van Straalen, Thomas Hartmann, John Sheehan, 2017-09-14 Property Rights and Climate Change explores the multifarious relationships between different types of climate-driven environmental changes and property rights. This original contribution to the literature examines such climate changes through the lens of property rights rather than through the lens of land use planning. The inherent assumption pursued is that the different types of environmental changes with their particular effects and impact on land use share common issues regarding the relation between the social construction of land via property rights and the dynamics of a changing environment. Making these common issues explicit and discussing the different approaches to them is the central objective of this book. Through examining a variety of cases from the Arctic to the Australian coast, the contributors take a transdisciplinary look at the winners and losers of climate change, discuss approaches to dealing with changing environmental conditions, and stimulate pathways for further research. This book is essential reading for lawyers, planners, property rights experts, and environmentalists.

Verdant Inferno/A Scabby Black Brazilian Alberto Rangel, Jean-Christophe Goddard, 2025-12-09 A classic of Brazilian literature is twinned with an overheated tract in which tropical delirium swallows up Western philosophy attacking the decolonial question with poetic ferocity. A classic of Brazilian literature is twinned with an overheated tract in which tropical delirium swallows up Western philosophy. Both attack the decolonial question with poetic ferocity ignited by the moment when colonialist rationality meets its limits in the magnificent disorder of the Amazon jungle. Described in Eduardo Viveiros de Castro's foreword as no longer an interpretation of Brazil but an interpenetration with Brazil, Jean-Christophe Goddard's strange theory-fiction plunges Western philosophy into the great American schizophrenia where its ordered categories are devoured by uncontrollable contaminations: first and foremost, the rainforest itself, a monstrosity unapproachable by the cogito.

In 1664 the Portuguese Bento de Espinosa wrote of his terrifying hallucination of a scabby black Brazilian But rather than a vision of the Other the dream figure was a frightful glimpse of Bento s own duplicity Upon adopting the clean white nickname of Benedict de Spinoza the philosopher cut ties with his homeland and its colonial misadventures repudiating this specter that flees along the lines of migration Spinoza is American the journey is intensive And in his wake a cannibalized cast of conceptual personae are sucked into Goddard s Pernambucan delirium Franny Deleuze Dina Levi Strauss Chaya Ohloclitorispector Galli Mathias The rainforest also precipitates a deregulation of the senses in Verdant Inferno Alberto Rangel s classic 1904 work of Brazilian literature In Rangel s astonishing tales this poet engineer sent into the dark interior as a state representative records his encounters in a style that shimmers between objective documentary and visionary limit experience
