Statehood and the Law of Self-Determination D. Rai*c, 2002-09-25 Although most international lawyers assumed that the distribution of the land surface of the earth between States was more or less final after the end of decolonization recent practice has disproved this assumption Eritrea separated from Ethiopia and new States were created out of the former Soviet Union the former Yugoslavia and the former Czechoslovakia There is no reason to believe that these events form the end of the creation of new States Numerous communities within existing States claim a right to full separate statehood on the basis of their entitlement to an alleged right to self determination However in most cases the international community rejected such claims to statehood even if the territorial entity satisfied the traditional criteria for statehood On the other hand in other cases including some of those mentioned above the international community acknowledged the statehood of entities which clearly failed to meet these criteria In the light of the above mentioned developments this book examines the modern law of statehood and in particular the role of the law of self determination in the process of the formation of States in international law The study shows that the law of statehood has changed considerably since the establishment of the United Nations It is argued that the law of self determination is particularly relevant for explaining the international community's position regarding the general recognition or the general denial of statehood of different territorial entities under contemporary international law

International Law Mohammed Bedjaoui, 1991 The arrival of the International Law Achievements and Prospects can fairly be described as a major event in international legal publishing It has been written by international lawyers from the North the South the East and the West whose differing origins and different or even opposed academic backgrounds have ensured that the book encapsulates and brings into focus the main forms of civilization and the principal legal systems of the world The book's most distinctive feature is its international multi cultural and polyphonic nature International Law Achievements and Prospects aims to inform and to educate to make the discipline of international law accessible to a very broad public and to promote a meeting of minds on fundamental notions key concepts and the guiding principles of international law over and beyond frontiers ideologies and doctrines In addition it is intended to provide a framework for thought to describe what international law is today to specify its nature define its purpose and show its strengths and also to point out its weaknesses All the contributing authors are or have been practitioners of international law Their contributions express a global view of international law which helps to unravel the complex reality of the contemporary world International Law Achievements and Prospects has been produced under the auspices of UNESCO its content also aspires to reflect in some measure the imprint of that Organization's sponsorship
