Despite many well intentioned efforts to create revise reform and establish an effective child welfare system in the United States the system continues to fail to ensure the safety and well being of maltreated children Out of Harm s Way explores the following four critical aspects of the system and presents a specific change in each that would lead to lasting improvements

Deciding who is the client Child welfare systems attempt to balance the needs of the child and those of the parents often failing both Clearly answering this question is the most important yet unaddressed issue facing the child welfare system

Decisions The key task for a caseworker is not to provide services but to make decisions regarding child abuse and neglect case goals and placement however practitioners have only the crudest tools at their disposal when making what are literally life and death decisions

The Perverse Incentive Billions of dollars are spent each year to place and maintain children in out of home care Foster care is meant to be short term yet the existing federal funding serves as a perverse incentive to keep children in out of home placements

Aging out More than 20 000 youth age out of the foster care system each year and yet what the system calls emancipation could more accurately be viewed as child neglect After having spent months years or longer moving from placement to placement aging out youth are suddenly thrust into homelessness unemployment welfare and oppressive disadvantage

The chapters in this book offer a blueprint for reform that eschews the tired cycle of a tragedy followed by outrage and calls for more money staff training and lawsuits that provide at best fleeting relief as a new complacency slowly sets in until the cycle repeats

If we want instead to try something else the changes that Gelles outlines in this book are affordable scalable and proven

Evidence-Based Child Protection in Social Work Colin Pritchard,Richard Williams,2013-03-01 Social workers deal with complex human situations every day Invariably they do this with only partial knowledge of key factors in situations that are dynamic and fast moving and often confronted by complex ethical and professional dilemmas They need an up to date textbook that looks in detail at the evidence of who harms children why people kill children and what good social work can achieve both at a micro and macro level Featuring illustrations from practice as well as case studies and practical activities to aid learning this book provides a holistic view of decision making as a core aspect of effective social work practice with at risk children and their families

Good Practice in Safeguarding Children Hilary Owen,Liz Hughes,2009-01-15 This book draws together contributors experiences of working with safeguarding children on a broad range of issues including neglect trafficked children parents with learning difficulties and child protection supervision The contributors discuss current dilemmas in safeguarding children work and provide models of good practice

Child Protection Assessment Following Serious Injuries to Infants Peter Dale,Richard Green,Ron Fellows,2005-11-04 The authors consider family contexts the nature and interpretation of injuries and offer specific recommendations for making sound decisions in child protection contexts

The Survey ,1908 Effective Safeguarding for Children and Young People Maggie Blyth,Enver Solomon,2012-02-08 The number of children entering the child protection system has risen dramatically in the last three years with implications for children s services and partner agencies This timely volume takes a critical look at the impact of the Munro Review 2011 on child protection and the Government's response. It looks at questions including how effective Local Safeguarding Children Boards are in providing the necessary scrutiny to ensure children are safe, how the early offer of help at local level might reduce the numbers of children at the critical end of the spectrum, and whether reducing regulation from the centre will result in better outcomes for the most vulnerable. Moreover, it also considers those young people who traditionally bypass child protection services but remain at risk of harm. These are critical questions for both policy and practice in understanding the reforms. Munro states that contributions from leading experts working in the child protection system are required to review current safeguarding policy and explore the future after Munro.
