- Efficiency--the ability of insurance to act as the lowest-cost method for achieving goals remains an open question
- Equity--A government can structure the program to target those most deserving
 - The often indirect method by which governments provide subsidies through insurance is inconsistent with efforts to target benefits to the deserving as traditionally defined.
 - Such is the case with the farmer that plants high risk crops.
- Legitimacy--Government insurance programs are typically rare in the U.S. and abroad, although the scope of the few programs that exist is large. The fact that the insured pay premiums help clarify legitimacy (vs. grant programs)

International Law Society,2001 Trading Services in the Global Economy Juan R. Cuadrado Roura,Luis Rubalcaba-Bermejo,J. R. Bryson,2002 Comprises 14 papers which discuss the relationship between services globalization and trade liberalization Northwestern Journal of International Law & Business ,2001 Loyola of Los Angeles Law Review ,2003 Journal of World Trade ,2007-02 From Sharing to Earning ,1997 The Constitutionalization of the World Trade Organization Deborah Z. Cass,2005 This is a book about the constitutionalization of the World Trade Organization and the contemporary development of institutional forms and democratic ideas associated with constitutionalism within the world trading system It is about constitutionalization enthusiasts who promote institutions management techniques rights discourse and quasi judicial power to construct a constitution for the WTO It is about constitutional skeptics who fear the effect the phenomenon of constitutionalization is having on the autonomy of states the capacity of the WTO to consider non economic and non free trade goals and democratic processes at the WTO and within the nation state The aim of the study then is to disentangle debates about the various meanings of the term constitution when it used to apply to the World Trade Organization and to reflect upon the significance of those meanings for more general international law conceptions of constitutions Cass argues that the WTO is not and should not be described as a constitution either by the standards of any received account of that term or by the lights of any of the current WTO models Under these definitions serious issues of legitimacy democracy and community are at stake The WTO would lack a proper political structure to balance the work of its judicial bodies it may curtail the ability of states to decide matters of national economic interest it lacks authorization by a coherent political community and it risks an emphasis upon economic goals and pure free trade over other equally important social values Instead Cass argues that what is needed is a constitutionalized WTO which considers the economic development needs of states and takes account of the skewed playing field of international trade and its effect on the economic prospects of developing countries In short trading democracy legitimacy and community and not trading constitutionalization are the biggest challenges facing the WTO
