

Activity: An Introduction

Students demonstrate an understanding of compound probability through simple events based on the probability of the first event occurring by applying the principle of independence. The set of outcomes for the first event is described by listing the possible outcomes. The second event is described by listing the possible outcomes for the first event. The probability of the first event occurring is the number of outcomes for the first event divided by the total number of outcomes for the first event. The probability of the second event occurring is the number of outcomes for the second event divided by the total number of outcomes for the second event. The probability of both events occurring is the product of the probability of the first event occurring and the probability of the second event occurring.

Students identify the outcomes for the events described in the activity and calculate the probability of the events occurring.

Example 1: A coin is tossed.

- 1. List the outcomes for the event.
- 2. Calculate the probability of the event occurring.

Example 2: A die is rolled.

- 1. List the outcomes for the event.
- 2. Calculate the probability of the event occurring.

Example 3: A card is drawn.

- 1. List the outcomes for the event.
- 2. Calculate the probability of the event occurring.

Example 4: A coin is tossed and a die is rolled.

- 1. List the outcomes for the event.
- 2. Calculate the probability of the event occurring.
