structures of masculinity and femininity are central to the formation of society as a whole. However, they argue that the oppression of women should not be seen as the most fundamental dynamic of society and that the gendered culture should be challenged because it enables the hierarchies of sex, race, and class to be maintained. This new edition contains, up to date, statistics and analyses the impacts of New Zealand's shift to a more market-driven society on the gendered society.

Parliamentary Debates (Hansard) New Zealand. Parliament. House of Representatives, 1986. Looking Flash Bronwyn Labrum, Fiona McKergow, Stephanie Gibson, 2007. Offering a fresh look at the role of clothes in New Zealand history, this reference examines what New Zealanders wear and what they have worn from the shrinking bathing suit to the black singlet over the past three centuries, proving that clothing reveals as much as it conceals. The authors show that, despite a reputation for being wary of looking flashy, New Zealand has not always been a dowdy country. Essays span the clothing of pre-colonial Maori society, marching girls, and castaways and include 18th-century heirloom dresses, hand-me-downs, wartime garb, and kilts. There are also extraordinary stories about the fate of a Maori cloak and an Otago farmer's remarkable collection of 1970s high-fashion garments.
