

1.2 The History of Sociology

- In the 18th century, Age of Enlightenment philosophers developed general principles that could be used to explain social life.
- Thinkers such as John Locke, Voltaire, Immanuel Kant, and Thomas Hobbes responded to what they saw as social ills by writing on topics that they hoped would lead to social reform.
- The early 19th century saw great changes with the Industrial Revolution, increased mobility, and new kinds of employment.
- It was also a time of great social and political upheaval with the rise of empires that exposed many people—for the first time—to societies and cultures other than their own.
- Millions of people were moving into cities and many people were turning away from their traditional religious beliefs.
