Ziegler, 2006 In this volume world renowned specialists review the latest scientific information and recommendations for protein and energy requirements of infants and children New data obtained with the latest techniques show significantly lower requirements for both energy and protein than previously thought This will have far reaching implications for nutrition and health not only during infancy and childhood but also for long term health outcomes such as obesity and related disorders Indeed for the latest generation of some infant formulas many of the new nutrition concepts presented in this volume especially those concerning protein level and quality have already been translated into clinically tested products that are coming ever closer to the gold standard human milk not only in terms of composition but also of outcome The important public health implications of the information reviewed in this volume provide essential reading for pediatricians clinical investigators and health workers engaged in the prevention of nutrition related disorders

Best and Safe Practices in Different Contexts of Neonatal Care R. Mauricio Barría, 2024-06-19 The field of neonatal care has been a long standing concern within the broader field of child health given the crucial role the neonatal stage plays in the development of individuals While many of the most effective practices in neonatal care have been widely disseminated across maternal and childcare units globally cultural and social differences as well as the availability of resources necessitate the adaptation of these practices to the specific contexts of each place This book discusses a range of crucial topics related to neonatal care over two sections It includes ten chapters that address pertinent issues in neonatal care The book s objective is to contribute to the clinical work of health teams in neonatal units by sharing content and lessons for efficient and safe care both from the global context of the configuration of the therapeutic environment to specific topics of usual care The chapters have been developed by specialists in neonatology from different countries and through them they hope to share part of their experience Vital and Health Statistics ,1972
