Wissenschaftliches Zentrum, 1983-03 IBM Germany's Heidelberg Science Center selected enduser systems and their human factors as the topic of the symposium to celebrate their fifteenth anniversary This symposium had two objectives exemplify enduser systems in the context of usability issues and summarize knowledge about human factors and proper research methods The second objective is to identify important open questions and suggest lines of future research to interested scholars Enduser Systems and Their Human Factors Albrecht Blaser, Magdalena Zoeppritz, 1983 IBM Germany's Heidelberg Science Center selected enduser systems and their human factors as the topic of the symposium to celebrate their fifteenth anniversary This symposium had two objectives exemplify enduser systems in the context of usability issues and summarize knowledge about human factors and proper research methods The second objective is to identify important open questions and suggest lines of future research to interested scholars Enduser Systems and Their Human Factors Albrecht Blaser, Magdalena Zoeppritz, 1983 Designing End-User Interfaces N Heaton, M Sinclair, 2014-05-23 Designing End User Interfaces State of the Art Report focuses on the field of human computer interaction HCI that reviews the design of end user interfaces This compilation is divided into two parts Part I examines specific aspects of the problem in HCI that range from basic definitions of the problem evaluation of how to look at the problem domain and fundamental work aimed at introducing human factors into all aspects of the design cycle Part II consists of six main topics definition of the problem psychological and social factors principles of interface design computer intelligence and interface design systems aspects of the human computer interface and conclusion This book is recommended for computer designers aiming to understand the user improve the software and its associated interface and design hardware that is suitable for use Cooperative Interfaces to Information Systems Leonard Bolc, Matthias Jarke, 2012-12-06 Information systems are large repositories of factual and inferential knowledge intended to be queried and maintained by a wide variety of users with different backgrounds and work tasks The community of potential information system users is growing rapidly with advances in hardware and software technology that permit computer communications support for more and more application areas Unfortunately it is often felt that progress in user interface technology has not quite matched that of other areas Technical solutions such as computer graphics natural language processing or man machine man communications in office systems are not enough by themselves They should be complemented by system features that ensure cooperative behavior of the interfaces thus reducing the training and usage effort required for successful interaction In analogy to a human dialog partner we call an interface cooperative if it does not just accept user requests passively or answer them literally but actively attempts to understand the users intentions and to help them solve their application problems This leads to the central question addressed by this book What makes an information systems interface cooperative and how do we provide capabilities leading to cooperative interfaces Many answers are possible A first aspect concerns the formulation and acceptance of user requests Many researchers assume that such requests should be formulated in natural language

Human Factors in Information Systems Jane M. Carey,1991 The goal of this book is to provide information systems professionals and academicians with a human factors orientation and practical guidelines relating to human factors issues It is also intended for use as a textbook for graduate level students Researchers and practitioners alike understand that information systems success is very much dependent on incorporating good human factors into system design The general introduction serves as a position treatise for the study of human factors in information systems The disciplines of computer science information systems human factors engineering and computer human interaction CHI are explored as contributing fields to human factors in IS HFIS The goal of this introduction is to differentiate HFIS from the contributing disciplines and to discuss overlapping issues and topics of focus to be addressed later in the text
