The woman is on the left, wearing a dark top and pants, and the man is on the right, wearing a light-colored shirt and pants. The overall mood is contemplative and serene.

Failing Distance:

Ruskin's Maze Jay Fellows, 2014-07-14 Professor Fellows presents a map of Ruskin's mind as it shifts from conditions of mastery to madness. In his study he examines and transcribes the ways in which Ruskin observed his dislocation of imagination and shows how in the very process of disintegration he was enabled by his peculiar genius to transform the effects on his language and conceptualization into new forms of articulation under pain. Breiding, 2019-11-25 Too Small to Fail analyzes how several successful small countries with populations under twenty million have made a virtue out of their physical limitations. The book seeks to understand what it is they do differently and why. What is their recipe for achieving better educated, more egalitarian, and wealthier populations? The book looks first at the forest and then the trees. It examines the characteristics shared by small countries such as Switzerland, Ireland, Singapore, and the Scandinavian states. It draws parallels and discovers patterns shared among them that are common to each of their success stories. The book then looks at the policies of selected countries that have paved the way for remarkable improvements and considers the individuals, corporations, and institutions that have made a positive and sustainable impact. It further goes on to explain how these small countries are reshaping the World in a never-before manner. Science John Michels, 1927 Vols for 1911-13 contain the
