Important OSHA Standards Contributing to Fewer Workplace Accidents

Standard 1910.132: Personal Protective Equipment: Protective equipment, including clothing, helmets, goggles and other eye protection, must be used when process or environment presents hazards. Electrical safety equipment or mechanical failures can cause deadly harm.

Standard 1910.119: Process Safety Management (PSM): Put in place in 1992 to prevent a major unplanned release of a highly toxic or flammable substance, PSM has saved lives and prevented property damage. PSM applies to 10,000 plants or other facilities that produce or use highly hazardous chemicals.

Standard 1910.147: Lock Out-Tag Out: Lock out or tag out means the controlled reconnection or starting of hazardous energy during maintenance or servicing of equipment. The standard requires that lockout/tagout be used on all 50,000+ facilities each year covered by OSHA.

OSHA Inspections: Workplace safety inspections are conducted by OSHA to ensure that employers are complying with OSHA standards. OSHA inspectors are trained to identify safety hazards and to issue citations if violations are found. OSHA inspectors are also responsible for conducting safety training and providing technical assistance to employers.
