

Job Safety and Health IT'S THE LAW!

All workers have the right to:

- A safe workplace
- Know exactly what health concern with your workplace or OSHA, or report a work-related injury or illness, without being retaliated against.
- Receive information and training on job hazards, including all hazardous substances in your workplace.
- Request an OSHA inspection of your workplace if you believe there are unsafe or unhealthy conditions. OSHA will keep your name confidential. You have the right to have a representative contact OSHA on your behalf.
- Participate or have your representative participate in an OSHA inspection and speak in private to the inspector.
- file a complaint with OSHA within 30 days (or phone, online or email) if you have been retaliated against for raising your rights.
- See any OSHA citations issued to your employer.
- Request copies of your medical records, tests that measure hazards in the workplace, and the workplace injury and illness log.

Employers must:

- Provide employees a workplace free from recognized hazards. It is illegal to retaliate against employees for raising any of their rights under this law, including raising a health and safety concern with you or with OSHA, or reporting a work-related injury or illness.
- Comply with all applicable OSHA standards.
- Report to OSHA all work-related fatalities within 8 hours, and all inpatient hospitalizations, amputations and losses of an operation OI hours.
- Provide required training to all workers in a language and vocabulary they can understand.
- Properly display this poster in the workplace.
- Post OSHA citations at or near the place of the alleged violation.

FREE ASSISTANCE to identify and correct hazards is available to small and medium sized employers, without citation or penalty through OSHA's expanded consultation program in many states.

Contact OSHA. We can help.

Equal Employment Opportunity

Equal Employment Opportunity

The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) enforces laws that prohibit employers from discriminating against employees on the basis of race, color, sex, religion, national origin, age, disability, and genetic information. These laws apply to most employers with 15 or more employees, and to state and local governments, regardless of the number of employees. The laws also apply to employers with fewer than 15 employees if the employer is a contractor or subcontractor of the federal government, or if the employer is a contractor or subcontractor of a contractor or subcontractor of the federal government.

Employers are prohibited from discriminating against employees in all aspects of employment, including hiring, firing, promotion, demotion, transfer, layoff, recall, benefits, compensation, training, and other terms, conditions, and privileges of employment. Employers are also prohibited from retaliating against employees who have exercised their rights under the EEO laws.

If you believe you have been discriminated against, you should contact the EEOC or your state or local EEOC office. The EEOC will investigate your complaint and attempt to resolve the dispute. If the EEOC finds that you have been discriminated against, it may attempt to mediate the dispute or file a lawsuit on your behalf. If the EEOC does not find that you have been discriminated against, you may still have the right to file a lawsuit in court.

For more information, visit the EEOC website at www.eeoc.gov.
