Nicolay, M. Schepers, 2022-01-24 From a modern day perspective it may seem odd that people should have chosen to dwell in the open salt marsh landscape along the Wadden Sea coast While the beauty of the salt marshes is widely acknowledged the idea of living there seems to suggest struggle and misery Yet the salt marsh settlers dwelling on their settlement mounds or terps did not just survive or get by but actually managed to live a good life by embracing this marshy world and its peculiarities This collection of papers focuses on foraging farming and food preparation in the context of the salt marsh environment The various contributions celebrate the career and work of Annet Nieuwhof who has been an inspirational colleague and great friend to many of us She passionately embraced terp research always actively stimulating cooperation across disciplines as well as national borders Reflecting some of Annet's wide ranging interests the present volume is dedicated to her in friendship and gratitude Creole Clay Patricia J. Fay, 2017-11-28 In this book Patricia Fay tells the history of the Anglophone Caribbean by documenting the material culture in the form of locally made earthenware pots everyday objects that have been central to domestic life dating from precolonial to postcolonial times Over the course of twenty years and multiple visits to the region Fay has documented via text and image the living heritage of traditional ceramics in the contemporary Caribbean introducing the reader to the generations of potters pots and production techniques In the process she charts the history of the region and its people reminding the reader of the extraordinary historical insights to be gained by examining seemingly quotidian objects

Baker, 1983 What is meant by life in pots Animals drawn on the sides Arms and legs sprouting out from the clay walls a big face on the side like those horrible mugs you see in tacky gift shops Is it a quality in the throwing A tiny piece of clay frozen out of place on the wall A fat round shape that may speak of pregnancy or over eating Goopy slip dripping off the sides A distorted portion lip foot wall A disoriented pot leaning on its left foot A drunk pot ready to fall over It it none of these but rather a quality in the color or texture A mark left by the fire Or a combination of all of it Is it something more esoteric like a spirit coming from the life of the maker through the pot and displaying itself in an indescribable way
