Greek Fortifications:

Greek Fortifications Frederick E. Winter,1971 Ancient Greek Fortifications 500-300 BC Nic Fields,2006-01-31
The development of the city state in the Classical period of Greek history ensured a shift in the nature of fortifications in the region No longer were fortresses designed to defend a ruler and his entourage rather the whole of the citizen body had to be protected against any outside threats The enceintes of these Greek city states did not have to be very high or strong as city state conflict was still decided by spear and shield though some thought was still given to the science of fortification This book details the construction and ongoing development of the defences that protected some of the most illustrious sites in Greece during the most famous period of her history Greek Fortifications of Asia Minor 500-130 BC Konstantin S Nossov,2012-06-20 An illustrated history of the Greek fortifications of Asia Minor covering the revolutionary aspects of these structures and how they stood the test of centuries of vicious conflicts Greek Fortifications of Asia Minor 500-130 BC Konstantin S Nossov,2012-06-20 An illustrated history of the Greek fortifications of Asia Minor covering the revolutionary aspects of these structures and how they stood the test of centuries of vicious conflicts Greek Aims in Fortification Arnold Walter Lawrence,1979 The Phoenix Frederick E. Winter,1952 Greek Fortifications of Asia Minor 500-130 BC Konstantin Nossov,Konstantin S Nossov,2009-11-24 Sandwiched between the heart of ancient Greece and the lands of Persia the Greek cities of Western Anatolia were the spark that ignited some of the most iconic conflicts of the ancient world Fought over repeatedly in the 5th century BC their conquest by the Persians provided a casus belli for Alexander the Great to cross the Hellespont in 334 BC and launch the battle of Granicus and the sieges of Miletus and Halicarnassus A blend of Greek and Asian styles of military architecture these fortified cities were revolutionary in their multi linear construction successive defensive walls with loopholes and mural arches Konstantin Nossov illustrates the evolution of Greek fortifications and the influences of the region they bordered in this fascinating study The Fortifications of Arkadian City States in the Classical and Hellenistic Periods Matthew P. Maher,2017-08-15 This illustrated study comprises a comprehensive and detailed account of the historical development of Greek military architecture and defensive planning specifically in Arkadia in the Classical and Hellenistic periods Employing data gathered from the published literature and collected during the field reconnaissance of every site the fortification circuit of each Arkadian polis is explored In this way the book provides an accurate chronology for the walls in question an understanding of the relationship between the fortifications and the local topography a detailed inventory of all the fortified poleis of Arkadia a regional synthesis based on this inventory and the probable historical reasons behind the patterns observed through the regional synthesis Maher argues that there is no evidence for fortified poleis in Arkadia during the Archaic period However when the poleis were eventually fortified in the Classical period the fact that most appeared in the early fourth century BC strategically distributed in limited geographic areas suggests that the larger defensive concerns of the Arkadian League were a factor Although the defensive responses to innovations in siege warfare and offensive artillery of the Arkadian fortifications follow the same general developments observable in the circuits found throughout the Greek world there does exist a number of interesting and noteworthy regionally specific patterns Such discoveries validate the methodology employed and clearly demonstrate the value of an exclusively regional focus for shedding light on a number of architectural topographical and historic issues

Focus on Fortifications Rune Frederiksen, Mike Schnelle, Silke Muth, Peter Schneider, 2016-05-31 With a collection of 57 articles in English French and German presenting the most recent research on ancient fortifications this book is the most substantial publication ever to have issued on the topic for many years While fortifications of the ancient cultures of the middle east and ancient Greek and Roman worlds were noticed by travelers and scholars from the very beginning of research on antiquity from the late 18th century onwards the architectural economic logistical political urban and other social aspects of fortifications have been somewhat overlooked and underestimated by scholarship in the 20th century The book presents the research of a new generation of scholars who have been analyzing those aspects of fortifications many of them with years of experience in fieldwork on city walls Much new evidence and a fresh look at this important category of built structure is now made available and the publication will be of interest not only to the field of ancient architecture but also to other sub disciplines of archaeology and ancient history The papers were presented at a conference in Athens in December 2012 and they all present material and discuss topics under seven headings that represent the most central themes in the study of fortification in antiquity the origins of fortification physical surroundings and building technique function and semantics historical context the fortification of regions and regionally confined phenomena the fortifications of Athens and new field research The book is Volume 2 in the new series Fokus Fortifikation Studies created by the German based international research network Fokus Fortifikation The topics included have been identified by the network over many previous conferences and workshops as being the most important and as needing research and discussion beyond the network members Volume 1 in the series Ancient Fortifications a compendium of theory and practice Oxbow Books will also appear in 2015 and together the two volumes bring the field of fortification studies up to date and will be an essential resource for many years to come

The Fortifications of Arkadian City States in the Classical and Hellenistic Periods Matthew Maher, 2017 This illustrated study comprises a comprehensive and detailed account of the historical development of Greek military architecture and defensive planning specifically in Arkadia in the Classical and Hellenistic periods Employing data gathered from the published literature and collected during the field reconnaissance of every site the fortification circuit of each Arkadian polis is explored In this way the book provides an accurate chronology for the walls in question an understanding of the relationship between the fortifications and the local topography a detailed inventory of all the fortified poleis of Arkadia a regional synthesis based on this inventory and the probable historical reasons behind the patterns observed through the regional synthesis Maher argues that there is no evidence for fortified poleis in Arkadia during the

Archaic period However when the poleis were eventually fortified in the Classical period the fact that most appeared in the early fourth century BC strategically distributed in limited geographic areas suggests that the larger defensive concerns of the Arkadian League were a factor Although the defensive responses to innovations in siege warfare and offensive artillery of the Arkadian fortifications follow the same general developments observable in the circuits found throughout the Greek world there does exist a number of interesting and noteworthy regionally specific patterns Such discoveries validate the methodology employed and clearly demonstrate the value of an exclusively regional focus for shedding light on a number of architectural topographical and historic issues

Hellenistic Fortifications from the Aegean to the Euphrates Anthony McNicoll, 1997 The fortifications built around Greek cities for their defence and protection are among the most impressive of ancient remains In breadth and detail Anthony McNicoll analysed and illustrated over a score of fortified sites on the basis of personal knowledge and inspection ranging from Ephesus and Assos on the Aegean to Dura Europus on the Euphrates and spanning the development from the fourth century Mausolean great circuit of Halicarnassus to the first century cross wall at Miletus The individual studies provide a valuable publication of some little known material and support not only a technical and architectural history but an explanation of what was built in broader terms Anthony McNicoll's Oxford doctoral thesis Hellenistic Fortifications from Aegean to the Euphrates was much acknowledged by A W Lawrence the author of Greek Aims in Fortification OUP 1979 and has been highly praised by a number of scholars who have consulted it Revised here for publication it has been updated in the light of recent scholarship in a final chapter by N P Milner

A Landscape of Conflict? Rural Fortifications in the Argolid (400-146 BC) Anna Magdalena Blomley, 2022-05-26 This is the first systematic study of Late Classical and Hellenistic rural fortifications in ancient Argos and the city states of the Argolic Akte Based on one of the largest regional corpora of Greek fortified sites the volume investigates the function of rural fortifications by placing them in the context of their surrounding landscape

Scythians and Greeks Ellis H. Minns, 1913

Greek City Walls of the Archaic Period, 900-480 BC Rune Frederiksen, 2011 In this fully illustrated study Rune Frederiksen assembles all archaeological and written sources for city walls in the ancient Greek world and argues that widespread fortification of settlements and towns usually considered to date from the Classical period in fact took place much earlier Frederiksen discusses the types of fortified settlement and the topography of urban fortification and also the preservation of structures from early settlements He also presents an architectural history of Greek fortification walls before the Classical period and makes the intriguing observation that early monumental architecture developed just as much in fortifications as it did in early temples This underlines the importance of the secular sphere for the development of early communities across the Greek world

City Walls James D. Tracy, 2000-09-25 The essays presented in this volume first published in 2000 describe a phenomenon so widespread in human time and space that its importance is easily overlooked City walls shaped the history of warfare the mobilisation of manpower and resources needed to build them favoured some kinds of polities over others and their massive strength appropriately ornamented created a visual language of authority Previous collective volumes on the subject have dealt mainly with Europe but the historians and art historians who collaborate here follow a comparative agenda The millennial practice of wall building that branched out from the ancient Near East into India Europe and North Africa shows continuities and points of contact of which the makers of urban fortifications were scarcely aware separate traditions in China sub Saharan Africa and North America illustrate universal themes of defensive strategy and the symbolism of power each time embedded in a distinctive local context

Byzantine Fortifications Clive Foss, David Winfield, 1986

Ancient Siege Warfare Paul Bentley Kern, 1999 This book examines how siege warfare was able to unleash unrestrained violence It shows how the methods of siege warfare devalued the skills of traditional warriors along with the shared values of honor and prowess that limited the violence of traditional field battles

Military Fortifications, 1992-01-22 This is the first English language general bibliography on military fortifications It deals with the history of fortifications from the earliest times to the present throughout the world Design construction and maintenance of all types of fortifications are noted from permanent to temporary from earthworks to fortifications of wood and stone Although the work mainly cites English language sources numerous useful foreign language publications are noted as well Materials included range from books and pamphlets to essays periodicals book chapters dissertations and videos After the frontmatter which provides an overview of the subject the volume consists of six major sections general works are cited first followed by chapters on fortifications in the Eastern Hemisphere Europe the Pacific the Western Hemisphere and specific topics Each entry contains an annotation which notes the work s content assesses its usefulness and notes any unique features Access to the contents of the volume is augmented through an author index and a subject index This bibliography should prove invaluable to scholars and researchers concerned with military history and the place of fortifications in warfare
