

The background of the slide is a faded, grayscale image of a large stone relief sculpture. The sculpture is mounted on a cylindrical pedestal and depicts a complex mythological scene. It features several figures, including a central figure that appears to be a deity or hero, surrounded by other figures and animals, possibly a dragon or a lion. The relief is highly detailed, showing intricate carvings of faces, clothing, and anatomy. The overall tone is academic and classical.

College Journalism has often been disregarded or represented as other by literary critics and authors. The sense of its difference from literature has been heightened by its identification with daily newspaper journalism and reporting. Yet journalism in its broadest sense refers to all writing in public journals spanning both high and popular culture. It has been central to experiences of modernity making its dismissal problematic. This book considers journalism in all its diversity examining writing in journals across the cultural spectrum including literary journals, magazines, and daily newspapers. Presenting a variety of critical approaches, the authors explore journalism's importance in relation to gender, modernity, and modernism. They offer readings of established writers, critics, and journalists: William Hazlitt, Charles Dickens, Henry Mayhew, Matthew Arnold, Walter Pater, Dora Marsden, Rebecca West, Virginia Woolf, and Laura Riding. This book challenges received ideas of journalism's significance in literary and cultural history as well as perceptions of modernity and modernism. Key Features: Considers journalism in both its high and low cultural forms. Explores journalism's importance in relation to gender, modernity, and modernism. Includes chapters on Hazlitt, Dickens, Arnold, and Woolf. Synopsis Andrew D.

Dimarogonas, 1999-02-19. Lists the scholarly publications including research and review journals, books, and monographs relating to classical, Hellenistic, Biblical, Byzantine, Medieval, and modern Greece. The 11 indexes include article title and author, books reviewed, theses and dissertations, books and authors, journals, names, locations, and subjects. The format continues that of the second volume. Catalog of the Scranton Public Library Authors and Subjects, June 30, 1902. Scranton Public Library, 1903. Greek Studies. Walter Pater, 2002-06. The essays fall into two distinct groups that serve to mutually illustrate one another: one group dealing with Greek mythology and literature, the other with the history of Greek sculpture and architecture. About the Author: Walter Pater (1839-1894) was an English essayist and critic. A leader in the 19th-century revival of interest in Renaissance art and Humanism, Pater was a formulator of the doctrine that art and aesthetics are in themselves one of the ends of life. His works, noted for their stylistic purity and precision, include Studies in the History of the Renaissance (1873), the philosophic novel Marius the Epicurean (1885), generally considered his masterpiece; Plato and Platonism (1893), the partly autobiographical The Child in the House (1894), Greek Studies (1895), and the five posthumously published chapters of Gaston de Latour (1896), a novel left unfinished at his death. The Classical Weekly, 1924. Catalogue, Hamilton College (Clinton, N.Y.), 1888.

British Qualifications. Kogan Page, 2004. In a single volume, the new edition of this guide gives comprehensive coverage of the developments within the fast-changing field of professional, academic, and vocational qualifications: career fields, their professional and accrediting bodies, levels of membership and qualifications, and is a one-stop guide for careers advisors, students, and parents. It should also enable human resource managers to verify the qualifications of potential employees. A Nation of Peoples Elliott Robert Barkan, 1999-05-30 The debate over America's multiculturalism has been intense for nearly three decades dividing opponents into those insisting on such recognition and those fearing that such a formal acknowledgment will undermine the civic bonds created by a heterogeneous nation. Facts have often been the victim in this dispute and few works have successfully attempted to present the broad spectrum of America's ethnic groups in a format that is readable, current, and authoritative. The chapters in this reference book demonstrate that America has been far more than a nation of immigrants; it has been a nation of peoples of virtually all races, religions, and nationalities, inclusive of indigenous natives and peoples long present as well as myriad immigrant and refugee groups. Not all groups have equally found America to be a land of opportunity, and the successes of some groups have come at the expense of others. To understand the American experience, the reader must not just study the story of immigrants living on the East Coast but also the history of those living in the South, Southwest, West, and even Alaska and Hawaii. As a reference book, this volume provides thorough coverage of more than two dozen racial, ethnic, and religious groups in the United States. Each chapter is written by an expert contributor and overviews the experiences of one group or a cluster of related groups. The chapters are arranged alphabetically and cover groups such as African Americans, American Indians, Filipinos, Hawaiians, Mexicans, Mormons, and Puerto Ricans. To the extent possible, each chapter discusses the initial arrival of the group in America, the adaptation of the first generation of immigrants, the economic, political, and cultural integration of the group, and the status of the group in contemporary American society. Each chapter closes with a bibliographical essay, and the volume concludes with a review of the most important general works on America's multicultural heritage.
