Evolution Of Memory:

The Evolution of Memory Systems Elisabeth A. Murray, Steven P. Wise, Kim S. Graham, 2016-10-27 Current theories about human memory have been shaped by clinical observations and animal experiments This doctrine holds that the medial temporal lobe subserves one memory system for explicit or declarative memories while the basal ganglia subserves a separate memory system for implicit or procedural memories including habits Cortical areas outside the medial temporal lobe are said to function in perception motor control attention or other aspects of executive function but not in memory The Evolution of Memory Systems advances dramatically different ideas on all counts It proposes that several memory systems arose during evolution and that they did so for the same general reason to transcend problems and exploit opportunities encountered by specific ancestors at particular times and places in the distant past Instead of classifying cortical areas in terms of mutually exclusive perception executive or memory functions the authors show that all cortical areas contribute to memory and that they do so in their own ways using specialized neural representations The book also presents a proposal on the evolution of explicit memory According to this idea explicit declarative memory depends on interactions between a phylogenetically ancient navigation system and a representational system that evolved in humans to represent one's self and others As a result people embed representations of themselves into the events they experience and the facts they learn which leads to the perception of participating in events and knowing facts The Evolution of Memory Systems is an important new work for students and researchers in neuroscience psychology and biology Evolution of Memory Systems Elisabeth A. Murray, The Evolutionary Road to Human Memory Elisabeth A. Murray, Steven P. Wise, Mary Kelly Lorene Baldwin, Kim S. Graham, 2020 We tend to think about memory in terms of the human experience neglecting the fact that we can trace a direct line of descent from the earliest vertebrates to modern humans This book tells an intriguing story about how evolution shaped human memory Total Recall Gerfried Stocker, 2013 Since 1987 the Prix Ars Electronica has served as an interdisciplinary platform for artists using the computer to implement and design projects at the interface of art technology and society At the centre of Ars Electronica 2013 is the theme of memory storage History, Memory, and the Law Austin Sarat, Thomas R. Kearns, 2009-11-10 Law in the modern era is one of the most important of our society's technologies for preserving memory In helping to construct our memory in certain ways law participates in the writing of our collective history It plays a crucial role in knitting together our past present and future The essays in this volume present grounded examinations of particular problems places and practices and address the ways in which memory works in and through law the sites of remembrance that law provides the battles against forgetting that are fought in and around those sites and the resultant role law plays in constructing history The writers also inquire about the way history is mobilized in legal decision making the rhetorical techniques for marshalling and for overcoming precedent and the different histories that are written in and through the legal process The contributors are Joan Dayan Soshana Felman Dominic La Capra Reva Siegel Brook

Thomas and G History, Memory and Public Life Anna Maerker, Simon Sleight, Adam Sutcliffe, 2018-07-06 History Memory and Public Life introduces readers to key themes in the study of historical memory and its significance by considering the role of historical expertise and understanding in contemporary public reflection on the past Divided into two parts the book addresses both the theoretical and applied aspects of historical memory studies Approaches to history and memory introduces key methodological and theoretical issues within the field such as postcolonialism sites of memory myths of national origins and questions raised by memorialisation and museum presentation Difficult pasts looks at history and memory in practice through a range of case studies on contested complex or traumatic memories including the Northern Ireland Troubles post apartheid South Africa and the Holocaust Examining the intersection between history and memory from a wide range of perspectives and supported by guidance on further reading and online resources this book is ideal for students of history as well as those working within the broad interdisciplinary field of memory studies History, Memory, and Trans-European Identity Aline Sierp, 2014-06-20 This book questions the presupposition voiced by many historians and political scientists that political experiences in Europe continue to be interpreted in terms of national history and that a European community of remembrance still does not exist By tracing the evolution of specific memory cultures in two successor countries of the Fascist Nazi regime Italy and Germany and the impact of structural changes upon them the book investigates wider democratic processes particularly concerning the conservation and transmission of values and the definition of identity on different levels It argues that the creation of a transnational European memory culture does not necessarily imply the erasure of national and local forms of remembrance It rather means the creation of a further supranational arena where diverging memories can find their expression and can be dealt with in a different way Through the triangulation of agents of memory construction constraints and opportunities and actual portrayals of the past this volume explores the difficulties faced by a multinational entity like the EU in reaching some kind of consensus on such a sensitive subject as history History and Memory, 1993 Locality, History, Memory Rita Mukherjee, M. N. Rajesh, 2009-01-14 Locality History Memory The Making of the Citizen in South Asia was born out of the need to interrogate the tropes through which place history and memory underpin notions of citizenship in present South Asia Time as both time present and time past is framed here in two settings as privileging both place material or ideological site and space The latter refers to religion oppression marginalization and or dalitisation Time transcends both site location and actual physical boundaries Locality or location is therefore envisioned in terms of both actual place as well as a gateway to a larger space in terms of a situation where historical memory negotiates the increasingly complex present Agency and contingency therefore assume a critical importance here Citizenship far from being a discrete entity is found to be multidimensional it refers to formal status and the legal status of nationality and citizenship authenticated in the passport but it also refers to rights and privileges identity and solidarity religious beliefs and a sense of belonging Moving away from the role of the state which has been at the centre of all inquiries on citizenship we ask here the following questions in Locality History Memory How does our history enforce or dilute the notion of the citizen How far does memory strengthen or weaken it What role does features not normally associated with citizenship such as access to natural resources or ritual faith and religion play in reinforcing such a status History in the end is written by the historian and it was easy to map the changing methodologies used by the historians to essay the past but this is becoming increasingly difficult now Another twist is the shift to hypertext at a popular level echoing what the late E H Carr had once called bringing more and more people into history These so called alternative histories or people s histories are becoming more and more popular because of the point at which we are located in time Moreover devices afforded by the new media enable these alternative histories to have an immediacy that the conventional historical format lacked The collapse of state control over the new media has led to the resurgence of many archaic voices unimaginable just a decade ago

Evolution of Learning and Memory Mechanisms Mark A. Krause, Karen L. Hollis, Mauricio R. Papini, 2022-05-19 This book examines how evolution influences learning and memory processes in both human and nonhuman animals

Documents on the Balkans – History, Memory, Identity Margit Rohringer, 2020-06-01 This book explores historical discourses on the various forms of identity production in film that are based on memory and shows how these narratives get mediated by documentary film Most films about the Balkans produced in the last two decades were in fact made in response to immediate concerns about the economic crises and political conflicts that struck the region during the 1990s These new forms of communication about history mostly show a rather self critical approach The book s case studies give the reader a clear idea of how processes informing identity formations are directly launched and later on maintained in peoples real and everyday lives Thus the case studies principal objective is to integrate the study of private space with existing macro debates in politics as well as with dominant discourses within the academic community The included case studies focus on several topics i e migration the reproduction and protection of personal as well as collective identities in post socialist societies revolutionary processes towards the official end of the Cold War the re creation of politically constructed narratives generational conflicts in the post socialist period and the fate of women during the war The multifaceted view of the region under focus in this study shows that common grounds and differences co exist in the Balkan space be it on a cultural economic social or geo political level Apart from the field of film studies this work is a powerful contribution to cultural history as well as to the growing field of visual history

Fitzpatrick, 2002-06-17 This reinterpretation of a century of American historical writing challenges the notion that the politics of the recent past alone explains the politics of history Fitzpatrick offers a wise historical perspective on today's heated debates and reclaims the long line of historians who tilled the rich and diverse soil of our past
