Faith, Science and Understanding J. C. Polkinghorne, 2001-01-01 In this captivating book one of the most highly regarded scientist theologians of our time explores aspects of the interaction of science and theology John Polkinghorne defends the place of theology in the university it is part of the human search for truth and discusses the role of revelation in religion it is a record of experience and not the communication of unchallengeable propositions Throughout his thought provoking conversation Polkinghorne speaks with an honesty and openness that derives from his many years of experience in scientific research A central concern of Polkinghorne's collection of writings is to reconcile what science can say about the processes of the universe with theology's belief in a God active within creation The author examines two related concepts in depth The first is the divine self limitation involved in creation that leads to an important reappraisal of the traditional claim that God does not act as a cause among causes The other is the nature of time and God's involvement with it an issue that Polkinghorne shows can link metascience and theological understandings In the final section of the book the author reviews three centuries of the science and theology debate and assesses the work of major contemporary contributors to the discussion Wolfhart Pannenberg Thomas Torrance and Paul Davies He also considers why the science theology discussion has for several centuries been a particular preoccupation of the English

Faith Seeking Understanding John M. Shackleford, 2006 Science and Religion Joshua M. Moritz, 2016 One of the many virtues of Joshua Moritz's well structured and wide ranging introduction to the relation between science and religion is its resourceful use of historical scholarship to illuminate the origins and demonstrate the limitations of an all pervasive conflict model Ambitious and controversial in its bid to replace conflict with peace at every opportunity Science and Religion will be accessible and stimulating for a general audience as well as constituting what will prove to be a successful student text John Hedley Brooke University of Oxford What happens when religious faith meets scientific facts Many believe that conflict defines the relationship between science and religion especially the Christian religion But the war between faith and science is a myth a very popular myth that has endured for too long By investigating the root of this myth and reexamining its classic stories Science and Religion Beyond Warfare and Toward Understanding offers a more accurate relationship between science and religion With a focus on Christianity the text explores causes of contemporary conflicts and cases in which science and religion have interacted in mutually beneficial ways to demonstrate that in the relationship between science and religion harmony is more common than discord Joshua M Moritz is a lecturer of philosophical theology and natural science at the Graduate Theological Union in Berkeley and an adjunct professor of philosophy at the University of San Francisco

Faith, Science and the Future Charles P.

Henderson,2007-06-01 Cosmology Without God? David Alcalde,2019-06-26 Is God a superfluous hypothesis for modern cosmology According to the normal understanding of modern science the answer should be affirmative because modern science is supposed to be free of metaphysical and theological presuppositions However despite its self proclaimed neutrality regarding metaphysics and theology modern science is full of metaphysical and theological presuppositions These can be summarized as a mechanistic understanding of nature a reduction of God to an external agent in competition with natural processes and creation to a worldly mechanism These presuppositions are deficient and untenable and they remain unconscious for the most part in the dialogue between science and theology making it intellectually impossible because of the reduced notions of God nature and creation assumed Using the coherent and unreduced image of God and nature provided by the Christian doctrine of creation ex nihilo Fr David Alcalde intends to uncover and criticize the incoherent theological assumptions inherent in a concrete branch of modern science which is modern cosmology The author points out the presence of these inadequate theological presuppositions in both the theologians who use modern cosmology to offer scientific proof for the existence of God and the atheistic cosmologists who use their science to reject the idea of God

Dimensions of Faith Steve Donaldson,2015-07-28 In Dimensions of Faith cognitive scientist Steve Donaldson takes readers on a journey from the world of assumptions set minds widely varying beliefs and popular misconceptions to an understanding of the true essence and role of faith as the natural and inevitable product of brains Using numerous illustrations and examples Donaldson shows how faith is necessitated by a variety of unavoidable limitations exposes the myth of a divide between faith and critical thinking provides practical advice for crafting coherent beliefs and explains why there can never be such a place as Factland Along the way he takes a special look at religious faith evaluating its attributes exploring its relation to other manifestations of faith investigating whether God has done his job well enough to warrant the faith placed in him and pondering how truth seekers can sometimes end up in very different places There are as many

definitions of faith as there are people using the word Whichever meaning you use Dimensions of Faith will challenge and then deepen your faith as Donaldson lucidly demonstrates the congruence of faith and logical thought This is the work of a thoughtful scholar who is both a Christian and a scientist Wilton Bunch Professor of Philosophy Samford University Birmingham Alabama In Dimensions of Faith Donaldson offers a very readable argument that whether a person is religious or not all of us are imbued with faith as a fundamental component of what it means to be human Many authors have delved into faith from either a religious or scientific perspective few have succeeded in integrating faith and reason in such a seamless fashion Dimensions of Faith is a must read for anyone interested in the interface of science and religion Thomas W Woolley PhD Professor of Statistics Samford University Birmingham Alabama Dimensions of Faith is a brilliant engaging and accessible meditation on its subject It is a robust defense of human freedom and an encouragement against fear of openness to experience You may not like all the answers offered here but your assumptions about faith will not remain untouched if you re open to examining them This is a book to think with and meditate upon Brian Steele Associate Professor of History The University of Alabama at Birmingham Deconstruction is rather easier and more common than construction In Dimensions of Faith Dr Donaldson takes the harder path and delivers a constructive work providing a hopeful voice to those of faith all of us by challenging current paradigms and imploring exploration into further understanding reminding us that to arrive is to fall short Todd Harrington Lead Pastor Haven Field Community Church South Vestavia Hills Alabama Dimensions of Faith tackles complex questions about faith from the viewpoint of a scientist who is also a Christian But first the author neatly unpacks assumptions mindsets and misconceptions about faith and defines faith in a careful and logical way He then establishes and explores the inextricable link between faith and reason and analyzes in depth the nature of religious faith This excellent book is a must read for anyone who has seriously pondered faith and its role in our lives Sharon Stuart Lawyer Steve Donaldson PhD is Professor and Computer Science Program Director at Samford University in Birmingham Alabama He also codirects the Computational Biology program teaches in the Science and Religion and University Fellows Honors programs and is one of the cofounders of the Samford Center for Science and Religion His research interests include cognition models of intelligence autonomous systems self organization and emergence and the interface of science and religion

Science and Christianity Chris Mulherin,2019-10 I believe in science so I couldn t be religious That s the repeated meme in themarketplace of ideas And in churches Christians ask themselves Can scienceand Christian faith live in harmony This easy to read book puts these fears to rest There is no irreconcilable conflictbetween mainstream science and Christian belief Written for students teachers clergy parish groups and interested lay people this is an attractive and engaging introduction to the relationship between scienceand Christian faith Science and Christianity Context and Catholicity in the Science and Religion Debate Klaas Bom,Benno van den Toren,2020-04-14 Based on a thorough study of the lived theology of Christian students and university professors in Abidjan Kinshasa and Yaound this book proposes a theoretical framework that makes an intercultural and interdisciplinary debate on science and religion possible Science and Faith Eric Charles Rust,1967 Philosophy and Psychology Pamphlets ,1925 Science in Theology Neil Messer,2020-07-23 If we wish to understand ourselves and the world in relation to God what contribution to our understanding should we expect from a Christian tradition with its roots in the Bible and what should we expect from the natural sciences Neil Messer sets out five types of answer to that question The responses range from the view that the Christian tradition has nothing to contribute through various forms of dialogue to the claim that science is irrelevant to theological understanding This classification scheme is illustrated and tested by extended explorations of three topics in the science and theology field how to think about God s action in the world how to make theological sense of the suffering and destruction involved in the evolution of life and how theology should respond to the scientific study of religion The classification offers a way to understand and evaluate these debates and the discussion of specific examples demonstrates the strengths and weaknesses of each type of approach The book concludes with suggestions for how readers might use this scheme to guide their own work on science and theology For students and researchers in science and theology this book offers three things a tool for understanding specific debates in science and theology critical surveys of some of the most important debates in the field and a concise guide to ways of setting up encounters of theology with science The Dialogical Spirit Amos Yong,2014-10-22 Contemporary proposals for Christian theology from postliberalism to Radical Orthodoxy and beyond have espoused their own methodological paradigms Those who have ventured into this domain of theological method however have usually had to stake their claims vis a vis trends in what may be called the contemporary post al age whether of the postmodern post Christendom post Enlightenment post Western or postcolonial varieties This volume is unique among offerings in this arena in suggesting a way forward that engages on each of these fronts and does so from a particularistic Christian perspective without giving up on Christian theology s traditional claims to universality This is accomplished through the articulation of a distinctive dialogical methodology informed by both pentecostalism and evangelicalism one rooted in the Christian salvation history narrative of incarnation and Pentecost that is yet open to the world in its many and various cultural ethnic religious and disciplinary discourses Amos Yong here engages with twelve different interlocutors representing different ecumenical religious and disciplinary perspectives The Dialogical Spirit thus not only proffers a model for Christian theological method suitable for the twenty first century global context but also exemplifies this methodological approach through its interactions across the contemporary scholarly academic and theological landscape The "Summa Theologica" of St. Thomas Aquinas Saint Thomas (Aquinas),1917 Science and Creation John C. Polkinghorne,2009-07-27 John C Polkinghorne internationally renowned priest scientist addresses fundamental questions about how scientific and theological worldviews relate to each other in this the second volume originally published in 1988 of his trilogy which also included Science and Providence and One World Dr Polkinghorne illustrates how a scientifically minded person approaches the task of theological inquiry postulating that there exists a close analogy between theory and experiment in science and belief and understanding in theology He offers a fresh perspective on such questions as Are we witnessing today a revival a natural theology the search for God through the exercise of reason and the study of nature How do the insights of modern physics into the interlacing of order and disorder relate to the Christian doctrine of Creation What is the relationship between mind and matter Polkinghorne states that the remarkable insights that science affords us into the intelligible workings of the world cry out for an explanation more profound than that which it itself can provide Religion if it is to take seriously its claim that the world is the creation of God must be humble enough to learn from science what that world is actually like The dialogue between them can only be mutually enriching

Christian Science and the Catholic Faith Augustin M. BELLWALD,1922 The Christian Science Journal ,1919 Understanding Creation L. James Gibson,Humberto M. Rasi,2011-01

Understanding Creation articulates twenty questions about faith and science that Christians often encounter The co editors have assembled an international group of experienced scientists researchers and thinkers who provide thoughtful answers to these questions They all share several convictions the biblical record is an essential component of Christian doctrine Christian faith and empirical science can work fruitfully together and our comprehension of truth is progressive
