The Glass Vessels of Anglo-Saxon England Rose Broadley, 2019-12-27 This volume combines a comprehensive exploration of all vessel glass from middle and late Anglo Saxon England and a review of the early glass with detailed interpretation of its meaning and place in Anglo Saxon society Analysis of a comprehensive dataset of all known Anglo Saxon vessel glass of middle Anglo Saxon date as a group has enabled the first quantification of form colour and decoration and provided the structure for a new typological chronological and geographical framework The quantification and comparison of the vessel glass fragments and their attributes and the mapping of the national distribution of these characteristics forms colours and decoration types both represent significant developments and create rich opportunities for the future The geographical scope is dictated by the glass fragments which are from settlements located along the coast from Northumbria to Kent and along the south coast to Southampton Seven case studies of intra site glass distribution reveal that the anticipated pattern of peripheral disposal alongside dining waste is widespread although exceptions exist at the monastic sites at Lyminge Kent and Jarrow Tyne and Wear Overall the research themes addressed are the glass corpus and its typology glass vessels in Anglo Saxon society and glass vessels as an economic indicator of trade and exchange Analysis reveals new understandings of both the glass itself and the role of glass vessels in the social and economic mechanisms of early medieval England There is currently no comprehensive work examining early medieval vessel glass particularly the post sixth century fragmentary material from settlements and my monograph will fill that gap The space is particularly noticeable when considering books on archaeological glass from England the early medieval period is the only one with no reference volume no recent through and accessible source of information The British Museum published a monograph entitled Catalogue of Anglo Saxon Glass in the British Museum in 2008 but as the title suggests it is a catalogue at heart and of a collection of fifth and sixth century grave goods in a single museum Chronologically a volume on the subject would fill the space between various books on Roman glass from Britain and Medieval glass vessels found in England c AD 1200 1500 by Rachel Tyson This book on early medieval vessel glass and the contexts from which it came will also make a significant contribution to early medieval settlement studies and the archaeology of trade in this period both are growth areas of scholarship and interest and vessel glass provides a new tool to address key debates in the field Ensign Training Len Kaplan,2009-06-17 System of OutCompete Innovation ranks is based on personal accomplishments and capabilities This is the training book for the first Innovation rank OutCompete Ensign This training enables Subject Matter Experts to efficiently in disciplined way participate in innovation projects solve unsolvable problems and handle objections Read learn use and OutCompete Hambledon Hill, Dorset, England Roger Mercer,Frances Healy,2014-02-15 A programme of excavation and survey directed by Roger Mercer between 1974 and 1986 demonstrated that Hambledon was the site of an exceptionally large and diverse complex of earlier Neolithic earthworks including two causewayed enclosures two long barrows and several outworks some of them defensive The abundant cultural material preserved in its ditches and pits provides information about numerous aspects of contemporary society among them conflict feasting the treatment of the human corpse exchange stock management and cereal cultivation The distinct depositional signatures of various parts of the complex reflect their diverse use The scale and manner of individual episodes of construction hint at the levels of organisation and co ordination obtaining in contemporary society Use of the complex and the construction of its various elements were episodic and intermittent spread over 300 400 hundred years and did not entail lasting settlement As well as stone axe heads exchanged from remote sources more abundant grinding equipment and pottery from adjacent regions may point to the areas from which people came to the hill If so it had important links with territories to the west north west and south in other words with land off the Wessex Chalk at the edge of which the complex lies Within the smaller compass of the immediate area of the hill including Cranborne Chase field walking survey suggests that the hill was the main focus of earlier Neolithic activity A complementary relationship with the Chase is indicated by a fairly abrupt diminution of activity on the hill in the late fourth millennium when the massive Dorset cursus and several smaller monuments were built in the Chase Renewed activity on the hill in the late third millennium and early second millennium was a prelude to occupation on and around the hill in the second millennium in the mid to late second millennium which was followed by the construction of a hillfort on the northern spur from the early first millennium Late Iron Age and Romano British activity may reflect the proximity of Hod Hill A small pagan Saxon cemetery may relate to settlement in the Iwerne valley which it overlooks
